Councillors Approve Bonds For Infrastructure Work

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors recently approved Mayor Thomas Koch's request to borrow more than $150 million for infrastructure improvements – including streets, sidewalks, water mains and sewers – over the next several years.

The requests were approved in a series of 7-0 votes on May 3, with Councillors Ian Cain and Nina Liang absent.

The largest bond, $100 million, will go toward street and sidewalk improvement. Public Works Commissioner Al Grazioso told councillors in April that $11 million from that total would go toward roadwork that was added to the city's 2018 capital improvement plan and the remaining $89 million would go toward roadwork in future years. About two-thirds of the funds will be used to repair neighborhood streets with the remaining money used for major arteries.

The city will also be able to use Chapter 90 money from the state for other road and street projects, Grazioso said, and could possibly

One Graduation Ceremony Planned For Each High School

- Tuesday, June 8 For North Quincy High School

By SCOTT JACKSON

New guidelines from the state will allow the Quincy Public Schools to hold one graduation ceremony for both of its high schools next month, instead of two ceremonies for each school.

School officials are also planning outdoor events for the senior class that would be held later in June in lieu of indoor prom.

Mayor Thomas Koch, in an April interview, said the state guidelines in place at the time could force the city to hold four separate graduation ceremonies, two for Quincy High School and two for North Quincy High School. Those guidelines would have required six feet of spacing for everyone present at each ceremony.

Supt. Kevin Mulvey on May 5 said the state had changed its guidance, meaning each school would only need to hold a single ceremony.

“New guidelines were approved last week, which will allow us to have one ceremony for each high school, which is great, and we will be able to keep the originally scheduled dates,” Mulvey said.

“That is great news. We were originally planning potentially to have four graduations, breaking up the two schools into two separate nights. Fortunately, we don't have to do that, which is great.”

Quincy High School's ceremony is slated for Monday, June 7. North Quincy High School's commencement is the following day, Tuesday, June 8. Both will be held at Veterans' Memorial Stadium at 6 p.m.

There are 400 grade 12 students at Quincy High and 320 at North Quincy High, Mulvey said.

Like last year, graduating seniors will be able to have two family members present at the ceremony. Seniors were able to RSVP for the ceremonies starting on May 7.

The latest version of the state guidelines allows three

Library Branches Back Open By Summer's End

By SCOTT JACKSON

The head of the Thomas Crane Public Library said all branches should be able to reopen by the end of the summer.

The Thomas Crane Public Library has four locations in the city, the main library on Washington Street and branches in Adams Shore, Wollaston and North Quincy. The Adams Shore branch is currently open to the public, and library director Megan Allen on May 3 said the remaining three should be able to reopen in the coming months.

“We've been doing our best to meet people's needs during this very challenging time and do it in a way that is safe for both the staff and for patrons,” Allen told the City Council that evening.

“We really miss our patrons. It is just not the same – it is a very eerie place, the library, without all of our normal visitors.”

“I am hoping that we will have all our facilities open to the public by the end of the summer,” she added.

Allen noted the city's Public Buildings Department has been undertaking

Councillors To Discuss College Building Proposal Thursday

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors will meet Thursday to continue deliberations over Mayor Thomas Koch's request to borrow $23 million to fund the first step of his proposal to build a new building to house both Quincy College and municipal offices.

The council's finance committee, which includes all nine councillors, will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday remotely via Zoom. The meeting ID is 941 8879 5841 and password for those using the Zoom app is Ey8dd7. The public can also access the meeting on their phone by calling 929-436-2866, entering the same meeting ID and the password 816228.

Koch is proposing to build a 16-story, 205,000-square-foot building in Quincy Center that would give Quincy College a permanent home and serve as a replacement for the city hall annex building. The building would be located on the site of the Munroe Building on Hancock Street, which would be razed as part of the plan.

The $23 million bond will allow the city to purchase the Munroe Building and a nearby parking lot, relocate its tenants, and design the new building. Construction

Quincy Is A City On The Move, Markey Says

By SCOTT JACKSON

The changes seen in Quincy over the past decade are example of what can happen with investments in public transportation and infrastructure, U.S. Sen. Ed Markey said during a visit to the city May 3.

"This is a city on the move. This is a city with a boomtown environment and people wanting to move here," he said. "This might be the greatest era in Quincy's history."

Markey, a Malden Democrat, met in the afternoon May 3rd with Mayor Thomas Koch, state Sen. John Keenan, and members of Quincy's Planning Department. The group visited the Hancock-Adams Common before moving on to the nearby Quincy Center MBTA station.

Markey's visit to Quincy comes as Democrats on Capitol Hill work to pass President Joe Biden's $2 trillion infrastructure package. Markey said the city's investments into Quincy Center over the past decade — more than $200 million in public money — are an example other communities could follow.

"This is like a model city capturing the benefits of public transportation and infrastructure investments," Markey said. "If you build it, they will come."

Markey was optimistic Democrats would be able to work with Republicans to pass the infrastructure package.

"We're just going to have to work with Republicans to get their votes by tailoring it in a way that elicits their support, but we can't be cutting back the size of it because we know the magnitude of the problems we're trying to solve," he said.

"It is going to be a tricky political terrain that we are walking, but ultimately I think we can be successful in solving that problem."

Senate Democrats are prepared to use reconciliation to pass the bill without GOP support if necessary, Markey added.

"We can use the 51 votes under the reconciliation rules to pass an infrastructure bill," he said. "We would prefer to work with Republicans on a bipartisan basis to get more than 60 votes for a package, but if not...ultimately we have to move forward with 51 votes and pass it like that."

Massachusetts could get between $25 and $30 billion from the federal government from Biden's proposal, Markey said, including funds for the state to use and money to be distributed to cities and towns. A member of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works, Markey said he wants to make sure communities are in the best position to use those funds.

"I want to be as helpful as I can be," he said. "We want to be your partners in any way we can."

Koch said he was hopeful the federal government would give communities leeway on how they spend the infrastructure money.

"I hope they give us the flexibility we have had with other money," he said, adding that no two communities have the same needs.

Koch said there are a number of infrastructure projects in the pipeline in Quincy. Those include fixing streets and subsurface infrastructure, building a new public safety headquarters on Sea Street and a new firehouse on Quincy Avenue, replacing the Squantum Elementary School, adding two or three more garages in Quincy Center, and constructing a new municipal building to house Quincy College and the offices now in the city hall annex building.

Koch also provided Markey with an update on the plans to redevelop the Quincy Center MBTA station. Atlantic and Bozzuto, the two firms chosen to oversee the project, remain committed to it, he said, but the plans are on hold as the T tries to work out the improvements needed to the station itself.

In the end, the mayor said the project could include 500,000 to 1 million square feet of housing and commercial space.

Flag Day Parade, Fireworks To Return June 12th

No Flag Raising At Pageant Field;
Fireworks Viewing From Beaches, Coastline

Mayor Thomas Koch announces that the 70th annual Quincy Flag Day Parade will be held this year on Saturday, June 12th and will be followed by a fireworks display over Quincy Bay.

The longest-running Flag Day Parade in the country will again feature bands, floats, color guards, specialty units, and hundreds of flag-waving youngsters.

Gov. Charlie Baker lifted the pandemic-driven prohibition on parades three weeks ago. As of May 29th, parades will be on the state's allowed list, making Quincy's Flag Day Parade one of the first large public events in almost 18 months.

Event organizers are encouraging participants and spectators to adhere to state regulations on social distancing and mask-wearing at the event.

Last year, the city held a "car parade" and displayed a massive version of Old Glory across Merrymount Parkway for decorated vehicles to pass under.

"We are grateful to be returning to the traditional parade format that generations of Quincy folks have marched in and enjoyed," Koch said. "This event has long been the kick-off to the summer season and restoring this important local tradition is yet another sign that we are emerging from the pandemic. We ask that everyone still take the precautions needed to protect their family but come out and enjoy a great family

House Passes $47.7 Billion FY 2022 Budget

The Massachusetts House of Representatives has voted unanimously to pass a $47.7 billion budget for Fiscal Year 2022.

The vote came after three days of debate and deliberation on more than 1,100 amendments that had been filed to the original budget recommendation made by the House Ways and Means Committee. Lawmakers said the budget responsibly responds to the needs of residents and makes investments that set the state on a path toward economic recovery after the COVID-19 pandemic. In total, the FY22 budget sees a 4% increase over funding levels from the previous year, with MassHealth and local aid to cities and towns continuing to make up the two largest expenditures.

Quincy's House delegation, House Speaker Ron Mariano, and state Reps. Tackey Chan, Bruce Ayers, and Dan Hunt, successfully advocated for more than $53.3 million for the City of Quincy in FY22; this includes $31.9 million in Chapter 70 education funding for Quincy Public Schools and $21 million of unrestricted general assistance to the City of Quincy, a 10% and a 3.4% increase, respectively, from last year.

In addition to education and general assistance, Quincy received funding for local human service agencies, with $100,000 for

Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. and $50,000 for Germantown Neighborhood Center. Both of these agencies provide important direct services to the community, particularly youth, low-income, immigrant and low-English speaking populations. The House delegation additionally secured

This year's fireworks will be held over Quincy Bay to allow for a much larger viewing area. Spectators can line the shores in Squantum, Wollaston Beach, Merrymount, Adams Shore, and Houghs Neck to spread out and safely enjoy a fantastic show from Atlas Fireworks.

This year's parade will step-off at 7 p.m. from the intersection of Coddington and Washington Streets. It will head north up Hancock Street and turn into Merrymount Park on Merrymount Parkway before wrapping up at Adams Field.

There will not be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field this year between the parade and fireworks. Instead, there are plans to raise the large American flag on Merrymount Parkway and the parade procession will pass underneath it.

The fireworks show is slated to begin at approximately 9 p.m. over Quincy Bay.

Quincy's Flag Day Parade was launched by the mayor's father, Richard Koch, Sr. in 1952. Koch had youth members of the Koch Club, march through Norfolk Downs and finish with a flag-raising ceremony at Cavanagh Stadium.

Seventy year later, Mayor Koch leads the volunteer Flag Day Committee in keeping this Quincy tradition alive.

QUINCY'S FIRST American Legion Post 95 being 102 years old is now in their new home at 500 Washington St. (rear). The post had to relocate from their previous home at 2 Mechanic St. due to road construction projects in the area. Since moving to Washington Street the post has gone under many changes to update the facility to conform to all local building codes. The installation of the new sign will make it easier for the veterans to find the location. This insect can usually be found throughout South and Central America, Mexico, and southern Florida, but is sometimes found in more northern locations where its host plants have done well. It causes damage by piercing the plant tissue and sucking the sap. The females lay a single clutch of eggs in the tender bark of twigs, and the eggs hatch about 20 days later. The female actively tends her brood, and can pass a chemical to her nymphs to make them distasteful to potential predators. — Brenda Weaver

Councillor Mahoney: Best Course Of Action For Quincy College Is Seek Entry As Community College

To the editor:

This Thursday, the Quincy City Council Finance Committee will meet and possibly vote on a $23 million acquisition of the Munroe Building and a parking lot a block away. The administration plans to build a new 16 story – 200,000 square foot building to house Quincy College and a new city hall that could open 2026-2027. I am opposed to this for many reasons, including but not limited to that the tax burden for this project falls on the City of Quincy taxpayers. I believe a better course of action is for Quincy College to petition the state to become part of the Massachusetts Association of Community Colleges.

Quincy College Enrollment and Finances

Quincy College, like many other colleges, has struggled with enrollment and finances for several years. The pandemic has only exacerbated these problems. Aware of these issues, the city plans to build a $123 million permanent home for the college. In this plan, the administration will increase Quincy College's footprint by 30% without a realistic chance of growing enrollment. Higher educational institutions throughout New England are experiencing a deep decline in enrollment. This picture will only worsen during the next ten years and is compounded by a significant drop in the US birth rate due to the 2008 Economic Recession.

At the first Finance meeting, I questioned the college president on the accuracy of the total number of students served. To properly determine the validity of the college, we must ensure that we are looking at accurate numbers. We should be looking at FTE (Full Time Enrolled) and retention of students, and volume of transfers. The college needs to be looking at this going back five years and forecasting five years to plan for how the college will remain solvent. To date, they have not provided any real numbers.

Broken Promise of No Cost to Taxpayers of Quincy

Back in 2013, the school made strides to separate from the city. This administration stated in the press that the school would be no cost to the taxpayers of Quincy. They also didn't want to sever the cord using the excuse that it would be too difficult to figure out the pensions.

Wrapping up last year's budget, I unearthed that the college couldn't pay the $2.4 million needed for its employees' health insurance, and the city picked up the tab. The administration neglected to be transparent to the City Council and the taxpayers about the college's financial situation. Historically, the college financed (managed) its employee pension fund and health care. The administration will now have taxpayers permanently fund Quincy College's employee health insurance costs and treat the college like any other city department. Quincy College is now a direct burden to the taxpayer. Looking through their financial information, things get messier for the taxpayers.

In 2006 per Chap 332 of the Acts of 2006 pertaining to Saville Hall. The college is responsible for paying $100k per year, with an increase each year. The college stopped paying this in 2017. If they can't now, what makes the administration think they will pay rent for 12 floors in a brand new building that will, in the end, approach $200 million in cost for the taxpayers.

A New Arena for the current College President

The current College President, Dr. Richard Dicristafaro was a great Quincy "Public Schools" Superintendent, but this is a new arena. For the public schools (K-12), he was given a fixed budget and tasked to mold that budget for an enrollment that was largely independent of market forces throughout his career. Now he must go out and market his college to bring in funds, manage a shrinking budget and attract prospective students in an increasingly competitive marketplace. These are tasks that a planned new building, six years down the road, will not solve. The revolving door of college presidents lacking higher education (college) administration experience has only worsened the reputation

Urges Council To Vote Against QC Proposed Building Bond

I am writing to express my thoughts about the proposed building for Quincy College on the site of the Monroe Building in Quincy Square.

As a former teacher, I am always in support of any improvements to education. Accessibility and quality matter a great deal. The case of the city taking an existing, rather attractive building off the tax rolls and replacing it with a sixteen story architectural, tax exempt building makes little sense.

Quincy cannot afford to give up the income. No municipality can. Small colleges are struggling, closing, and sorting out the aftermath of the pandemic.

Will college bound students defer and take a gap and viability of this college. The cost of this plan, if not successful, will lead to a significant burden for the taxpayers.

More Borrowing. No Plan.

I was encouraged by my fellow councillor's questions in the last finance meeting. If they listened to the answers, they should conclude the administration's plan isn't based on anything but wishful thinking, and a yes vote is genuinely counterintuitive. Over the past few years, Councillors have put forth a bill to seek a property tax break for residential homeowners and raised concerns in the press about the administration borrowing tens of millions of dollars without a plan. There is a widespread view in the public that this City Council is nothing more than a minor speed bump for this administration's penchant for spending. Let's stand up for the taxpayers and say "no," and reestablish the council as an essential and independent body.

Munroe Building

Then there is the Munroe Building which is on the National Register of Historic Places. I operated a studio out of the second floor for years, so I am pretty familiar with it. The mayor referred to it as "old and tired" in one of his podcasts. It is an elegant Colonial Revival building that has always been home to restaurants and shops on the ground floor and small businesses on the second floor. It continuously adds to the city's tax base. The relatively new apartment building "Munroe Place" next door took its name from the Monroe Building. It borrowed its entrance style and was designed to work in harmony with it. Presidents Place across the street incorporates the gables and other architectural elements from it. The Munroe Building is a welcome contrast to some of the uninspired buildings built recently throughout our city that will not stand the test of time. It would be a shame to demolish this historic building, lose businesses and replace it with what can only be described as a monstrosity.

When it comes to purchasing property in the city, this administration has a pattern of buying high and selling low. The cost of the purchase of the Munroe Building will be twice the assessed value. The cost to purchase the parking lot will be five times the assessed value. Add to this the cost to relocate the businesses and develop plans, and we are at $23 million. The estimated cost to build is another $100 million. That number will undoubtedly grow in the time preceding any opening.

Those are just some of the reasons we should not support this administration's foolhardy, expensive, and disruptive plan. I want to be clear: a new building opening six years from now will not save a college that is struggling today. This plan has nothing to do with keeping a college. It's about a mayor's desire to build "his" city hall because he never liked the original annex building.

Best Course of Action

To save Quincy College, the best course of action is for the college's Board of Governors to seek entry into the Massachusetts Association of Community Colleges. Last week with a unanimous vote, the City Council voted to do just that. Quoting my fellow councillor Ward 5 Chuck Phelan, "We are about to look at committing a large sum of taxpayers' money. It would behoove us all to look at everything first before we go out and spend a lot of taxpayers' money." Becoming part of the state system would also allow the college to take advantage of increased federal stimulus money earmarked for two free years of a community college education.

I will leave you with this. With over 80% of Quincy College's enrollment coming from outside of Quincy, the increasing cost of educating them should be shared throughout the state and not borne solely by the Quincy taxpayers!

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1924 postcard showing the recently built first commercial building on the north corner of Beale and Hancock Streets in Wollaston. In the corner store was Andros Hardware owned by Randall Andros and Harold Snow. The John T. Connor Company had one of their grocery stores on the right. Within a few years the corner store became home to the Beale Street Pharmacy and the remainder of the building was occupied by the F.W. Woolworth 5 & 10 cents store. Woolworth's had entrances on both Beale and Hancock Streets where the awnings are shown here. In the 1980s, this building was destroyed by fire and the present building replaced it.

Coach Appreciation

This being Teacher Appreciation Week I have been reflecting on the teachers I had that made a difference in my life. Two of which were also influential coaches.

After graduating high school I was not quite certain what I wanted to do with my life. I was fortunate to accept the guidance of North Quincy High School Coach Robert Nolan who made sure that every one of his basketball players continued on in college. Coach Nolan knew that I was in need of a prep school or junior college. He spent his weekends taking his players all over New England to find a suitable placement. I can remember going as far away as Maine to visit North Yarmouth Academy. In the end because of financing, I attended Quincy Junior College where I again played basketball and acquired my Associates Degree. I did not plan on going further in my education. However, Quincy Junior College Basketball Coach Robert Basiliere saw differently. He, like Coach Nolan firmly believed that his players should continue on in college. Coach Basiliere drove me to Framingham State College one afternoon to meet Dean Cosgrove. That meeting resulted in me to have a career in public education that lasted 42 years as a teacher and administrator. I owe my college degrees and career to these two coaches who saw something in me that I didn't see in myself. They stressed the importance of an education and saw to it that I pursued it. I am sure that others have benefited from their guidance.

It has been some time since Coach Nolan's passing. Coach Basiliere passed away on May 3rd. I will forever be indebted to their guidance, kindness and generosity.

Suggests Merging Quincy College With A Stronger College

Our city councillors have taken the right first step in asking the QC Board of Governors to engage in conversations with the state and report back to the City Council on any operational alternatives for Quincy College.

I would suggest a merger with a stronger college, one with a 4-year degree program or asking the state to accept the school into their program. The school's history of financial shortfalls, shrinking enrollment, revolving door presidents and the embarrassing loss of the nursing programs don't speak for rewarding them (or burdening Quincy taxpayers) with a $100 million plus school. Especially since only 19% of the students are Quincy residents.

Let's stop the madness and monument building and enjoy a Quincy Center free from construction and demolition

Just Thinking

• Would like to wish state senator John Keenan a full, speedy, and healthy recovery from his recent surgery.

• Where's the mayor getting all this money during this downturn of the economy? To consider buying another building, to construct a permanent home for Quincy College, is another recent example of "burning the holes of the pockets of Quincy citizens and businesses" to pay for all this construction. Where is / will the money come from, Mayor Koch? Not more / higher taxes I hope?

• Related to Quincy College, I agree with the City Council that Quincy College should consider merging or being part of the state community college system. Quincy College will be better served by being in this system, and Quincy residents and businesses will be off the hook in financing the school. I believe we have been unnecessarily burdened in financing the school, and now we might pay for a new building or buildings for it??

• Money would be better spent in creating a Social Justice Dept. within the city's government. Much has been said about it, and many are for it. I know others are against it, including the mayor, stating that other departments can do the work, but I don't think so. Other departments won't be dedicated to the cause, as they have their own functions and job details to worry about.

• Great to hear that the Flag Day Parade will be on full display this June 12th. Hopefully, we'll keep social distancing and wearing face masks when needed and necessary.

• I don't understand why high school seniors must do in-person learning starting May 17, with only about one more month left in the school year? Or are there plans for an extended session in the summer?

• Finally, I'm an Asian American, and like many others, Asians and non-Asians alike, are upset and angry by the continued violent attacks, verbally and physically, on Asians in the United States. We Asians aren't to blame for Covid-19. I DO blame the Chinese government for not being truthful and transparent about the origins of Covid, but how do people rationalize blaming the entire Asian race?

Please stop these attacks, and instead, attack and conquer the Covid pandemic.

Council Reluctantly Approves $400,000 For NQHS Annex

The city council has reluctantly approved, by a unanimous vote, the appropriation of $400,000 to build a temporary annex to North Quincy High School on Teals' Pond.

Council President Arthur Tobin said after the roll call that the council is "serving notice to the school administration and the mayor that we do not appreciate voting for something we do not want."

Councillors accompanied their affirmative votes on the matter with accusations of "poor planning" and "lack of foresight."

Mayor Walter Hannon praised the council for a "tough decision."

HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES PICKET CITY HALL

Some 75 Quincy City Hospital employees picketed City Hall during Monday night's Council meeting to bring attention to their contract fight.

The workers, some of whom carried signs charging that the city is "unfair," paraded in front of the building from 7-9 p.m.

George E. Harvey, president of Local 1139, representing DPW and non-professional hospital workers, said the union has been trying to get the city to negotiate a new contract for three or four months.

Union officials charge "unfair discrimination in the granting of raises to a select few, including members of the Mayor's staff" while denying the union increases."

Delicious Chocolate Cake Recipe

By MARIE

Chocolate cake that melts in your mouth – that is today's recipe baked by my niece, Ann. She brought me a piece of this delicious cake with the best frosting ever, you will not be disappointed if you try this recipe!

Ann found the cake recipe online and the butter cream recipe has been used by her and her family for decades. Back then recipes were copied from magazines or books and passed along to family and friends!

Preheat oven to 350 degrees; grease two 9-inch round cake pans

2 cups sugar
1 3/4 cups of flour
3/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 and 1/2 baking powder
1 and 1/2 baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons of vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup of milk
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 cup of boiling water

In a large bowl, stir together the sugar, flour, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda and salt.

Then add the eggs, milk, oil and vanilla, mix for 2 minutes on medium speed of mixer.

Stir in the boiling water last and mix well, batter will be thin.

Pour evenly into the prepared pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes in the preheated oven, or until a toothpick comes out clean.

Cool in the pans for 10 or 15 minutes, then remove to a wire rack and cool completely.

When cooled, frost with chocolate butter cream frosting, recipe below.

Chocolate Butter Cream Frosting

1 stick of butter, softened
1 box of Confectionary sugar
2 teaspoons of vanilla
1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
About 6 tablespoons of milk (use more if needed for smooth, creamy consistency)

Place all ingredients in a mixing bowl, mix until smooth and well blended.

If frosting is too thick add more milk one tablespoon at a time.

Place one layer of cake on a cake plate and spread top and sides with frosting.

Top with second layer and frost top and sides.

You can also frost this cake with fresh whipped cream, instead of frosting. Simply take one pint of heavy cream, add 2 tablespoons of confectionary sugar and beat well until cream thickens. This takes about 5 minutes or so.

Creamy Tuscan Chicken

By SUZIE

Here is a delicious and healthy recipe for creamy Tuscan chicken by one of my daughter's longtime Quincy pals, Kristen Paluzzi. Kristen has transformed her health (as well as her growing family's) by ditching the refined carbs and processed foods, incorporating healthy fats, and upgrading her ingredients. She's also an incredible cook!

This recipe uses coconut milk instead of dairy. Coconut milk boasts numerous health benefits! It is high in important healthy fats (called MCTs) and contains a variety of naturally occurring vitamins and minerals. This can be served over rice or just served with a nice side salad. I'm so excited to share this wonderful recipe with you. Your family will love it and it's also a great and easy meal to make for a dinner party. Enjoy!

INGREDIENTS

Chicken (breasts or thighs)
1/4 cup organic chicken broth
1 1/2 cup coconut milk (full fat)
1/4 cup basil
4 cloves garlic

Parsley
3 cups spinach
1/2 cup sun dried tomatoes
2 tablespoons almond flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons ghee
1 small onion

Cooking Instructions

1. Season chicken with salt & pepper and Italian seasoning
2. Heat skillet (medium) add ghee
3. Add chicken, cook 3-4 minutes (form a nice brown crust) now flip and same for other side another 3-4 minutes.
4. Remove chicken and set aside
5. Add ghee and garlic and onion stir 1-2 minutes
6. Add coconut milk, broth, sun-dried tomatoes and basil
7. Add chicken to pan with sauce. Cover and turn down heat to low simmer for five minutes.
8. Add spinach and stir
9. Spoon sauce over chicken and sprinkle with parsley.

Maeve McDonald Assumption Salutatorian

Maeve McDonald '21, of Quincy, addressed her classmates as salutatorian of the Class of 2021 during Assumption's 104th Commencement May 9, at the DCU Center in Worcester.

As salutatorian, McDonald introduced the Commencement speaker, Pulitzer Prize-winning and nationally syndicated Washington Post columnist George F. Will, Ph.D.

Hannah White '21, who was named valedictorian, delivered remarks to her fellow graduates and their families and friends before the conferral of degrees.

"Selection as valedictorian and salutatorian is one of the University's highest honors, and we are pleased to recognize Hannah and Maeve, who are both well-deserving of this honor," said Greg Weiner, Ph.D., provost and academic vice president. "Hannah and Maeve demonstrated a commitment to academic excellence and involvement in a number of on-campus organizations, including Campus Ministry, have solidified their places as leaders among their peers and developed into thoughtful and compassionate citizens. Hannah and Maeve and other members of the class of 2021 will impact the communities in which they live, as they have done with the Assumption community, and the University community is immensely proud of their achievements and promising futures."

MAEVE McDONALD

McDonald received a bachelor's degree in secondary education and English. She is a member of the Honors Program, Dean's List, and the Eta Sigma Phi (Classics) and Sigma Tau Delta (English) honor societies. She is a Light the Way Scholar as well as an Augustine Scholar.

In April, McDonald received the departmental award for middle/secondary education. In addition to completing her pre-practicum student teaching work, she participated in a community service-learning course in which she assisted teachers of students with special needs at Auburn High School. She also served on the Burrillville

(RI) School Department's re-entry committee helping to develop multiple potential plans for the return of student and staff in the school district during the COVID-19 pandemic. Specifically, contributed to the work of the curriculum sub-committee which developed language for the plans submitted to the Rhode Island Department of Education (RIDE).

At Assumption, McDonald has worked as Academic Support Center tutor and has been involved in Peer Ministry; as a student coordinator for Good Grief; served on the Campus Ministry Leadership Council and as a Horizon Retreat rec-tor; as a retreat helper and member of SEARCH; as a choreographer and actor in the Assumption's production of Godspell; as a Reach Out Center volunteer and START Retreat team member; and a member of the Student Ambassadors Club and Residence Hall Council. She was also part of SOPHIA and served as a lector and Eucharist minister on campus.

McDonald also participated in a spring break SEND trip to Trenton, NJ, where students participated in a retreat facilitated by the organization FaithJustice.

Social Security Matters

My SS Card Is Incorrect – What Should I Do?

By RUSSELL GLOOR

National Social Security Advisor
at the AMAC Foundation, The Non-Profit Arm of the Association of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: My sister and I have the same first and last names but are distinguished by our “middle” names. Our last name consists of two family names, which gives us both four, with only our middle names unique. We received two Social Security cards with the same name (middle name excluded), each with a unique number, but with our last name misspelled. So, my questions are:

- Which card is mine, and which is my sisters?
- Is it okay that our last name is misspelled?

I called Social Security and was told to make an appointment online, which I tried but could not because it wouldn't accept my last name. I don't know what to do now and hope you can advise me. Signed: Confused Sister

Dear Confused Sister: You haven't shared your age, but unless you're ready to apply for Social Security, you and your sister have time to correct your last name in your Social Security records. In any case, your Social Security Number is what is used to record your earnings for the purpose of future SS benefits, so you aren't losing anything where your earnings credits are concerned. You should, however, get your correct last name reflected in your Social Security records to be sure that your future benefits will be properly paid.

For Social Security purposes, only first names and last names (surnames) are considered your legal name. You can include a middle name if it will help distinguish you from another, but your legal name for Social Security purposes will be your first and last name only. Thus, you should correct your Social Security profile to reflect your correct first and last name and include your unique middle name for personal purposes to distinguish you from your sister. For additional awareness, SS last names are limited to 13 characters. Also, it's not uncommon for many people to share the same first and last name (e.g., John Smith) in Social Security's records – it's the SS number associated with that name that counts.

Other factors might apply too, such as whether the SS cards and numbers you and your sister now have are new, or if either or both of you have been using those SS numbers for past employment purposes. In any case, those numbers have been assigned to you, so getting your profile to reflect your correct last name is important. It's also important that each of you separately use only one SS card/number (you use one; your sister the other).

To correct your name with Social Security, you should fill out and submit form SSA-5; which you can download/print at this link: <https://www.ssa.gov/forms/ss-5.pdf>. Note that the form is used to apply for a new card, get a replacement card, or to change information for an existing SS number. The form includes complete instructions on how to fill it out, and you can submit it via the US Post Office to your local Social Security office, the mailing address for which you can find at www.ssa.gov/locator. Take note of the form's instructions for including additional documentation for identification purposes. I suggest that you and your sister both do this separately, each of you taking ownership of one of the SS numbers. When Social Security processes your name change, they will schedule an appointment to discuss any remaining questions they may have. They will notify you via U.S. mail of the date/time of the appointment and the next steps to be taken.

Since all Social Security offices are temporarily closed to public access due to the pandemic, you can do this transaction entirely over the phone if you wish, but you will need to first call for an appointment. If you choose the phone method over submitting form SSA-5, you should call 1.800.772.1213 and request an appointment to correct your name on Social Security's records. They will send you an appointment notice, at which you will be able initiate the name change process (you'll still need to provide them with identification documents via the US mail).

Beach Friends, Volunteers Clean Caddy Park

The Friends of Wollaston Beach would like to thank all those who participated in Cleaner Greener Quincy Clean Up at Caddy Park May 1. Your help is invaluable in keeping Quincy's “Environmental Treasures” clean.

We are particularly grateful to Major Jones and Master Sgt. Delorenzo and the cadets of the North Quincy High School Jr. ROTC program for the remarkable turnout. Thanks to the City of Quincy and DCR for supplying gloves/bags and the DCR for providing the trucks to dispose of all the trash collected. Special thanks to Stephanie Litterio of DCR for her amazing help during the cleanup.

“We're just so grateful for the help and support we've received not only for the cleanup, but during this last very difficult year,” said FWB President Maureen Mazrimas. “Looking forward to being back at the beach in the near future.”

The Friends of Wollaston Beach is an organization promoting public use of Wollaston Beach, preserving and protecting the fragile ecosystems, and addressing the quality of life issues relating to the Beach. The goal of the Association is to promote the wise use and preservation of the Beach, encouraging volunteerism, alerting others to issues af-

On Saturday, May 1, at approximately 7:15 p.m., Officer Paul Foley was parked in the lot of 656 Washington St. when his attention was drawn to a blaring car horn. He then observed a white Chrysler Seabring traveling south bound in the north bound lane at a high rate of speed. The Chrysler sped past several cars in the south bound lanes that were stopped at the red light.

Officer Foley estimated the vehicle's speed to be at least 60 MPH. The Chrysler ran the red light (on the wrong side of the road) and sped through the intersection of Washington Street and Baker Avenue almost striking a white sedan that was traveling in the north bound lane. Officer Foley immediately activated his emergency lights and siren and had to accelerate quickly in order to catch up to the Chrysler. Thankfully the Chrysler got stuck behind a slow moving T-bus and eventually pulled over and came to a stop on the Quincy side of the Fore River Bridge.

Officer Foley made contact with the operator of the vehicle. The operator appeared agitated and claimed he had just been involved in an altercation at work. He then said it had been a road rage incident but did not know the type of car involved. Officer Foley told the operator to shut the car off and to hand him the key. The operator complied. Officer Foley then requested the operator's license and vehicle registration. The operator handed him a Mass. issued medical marijuana card instead of his driver's license. Officer Foley could see that the operator's eyes were glassy and blood shot and noticed that his speech was slurred.

Once a backup officer arrived, Officer Foley asked the man to exit the vehicle. Officer Foley asked the operator if he was willing to participate in field sobriety tests. Officer Foley is certified in A.R.I.D.E. (Advanced Roadside Impaired Driving Enforcement). In accordance with that training, he administered field sobriety tests to the operator. Based on observations made, Officer Foley formed the opinion that the operator's ability to operate a motor vehicle was impaired by either alcohol, drugs or both. He searched the Chrysler and located an empty Budwieser can under the front driver's seat, a glass marijuana smoking pipe on the floor, and three empty marijuana containers on the front passenger floor. All items were seized as evidence.

While Officer Foley administered tests to the operator, the driver of the white sedan stopped and gave his statement and contact information to Officer Dabilis. He told Officer Dabilis that he was nearly struck head-on by the car as it sped through a red light on the wrong side of the road.

The 33-year-old from Weymouth was placed under arrest and transported to Quincy Police Headquarters. A breath test showed that his Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) was .12%. The operator was charged with OUI alcohol, marked lanes violations, speeding, failure to stop at a red light, and operating to endanger. The beer can and marijuana containers were placed into evidence. The glass pipe was tagged as evidence and handed to a Drug Unit detective who will forward it to the State Lab for testing.

The vehicle was towed and will be impounded for 12 hours. Great work!

AMAZON SCAM

We have been notified that residents of Quincy, and surrounding cities and towns, are being contacted about unauthorized purchases on their Amazon account. Most are robo (automated) calls but some are live callers.

The caller ID can be changed to read anything the scammers want it to display. Simply hang up! Do not give out any personal information to unsolicited callers.

If you receive a call, please report the scam to the FTC. If you've lost money to a phone scam or have information about the company or scammer who called you, report it at ftc.gov/complaint.

If you provided information or lost money, please also contact the Quincy Police Department at 617.479.1212 to file a report. If you didn't lose money and just want to report a call, you can use their streamlined reporting form at donotcall.gov.

AARP Massachusetts

Did you know that someone's identity gets stolen every two seconds?

The AARP Fraud Watch Network provides you with tips and resources to help you spot and avoid identity theft and fraud so you can protect yourself and your family. Our watchdog alerts will keep you up to date on con artists' latest tricks. It's free of charge for everyone: AARP members, non-members, and people of all ages.

The AARP Fraud Watch Network is:

- An Educator: Get real-time alerts about the latest scams, tips on how to spot them, and the inside scoop on how con artists think so you can outsmart them before they strike.
- A Watchdog: Our nationwide scam tracking map gives you access to a network of people who've spotted scams and the opportunity to pass along your own experiences, so together we can beat con artists at their own game.
- A Resource: Get connected to a real live person trained in how to avoid fraud and advise you if you or a loved one has been scammed by calling our fraud hotline or attending a forum in your community.
- Free for Everyone: Anyone, of any age, can access our resources at no cost.

SCAM ALERT #1:

DATA ON GIFT CARD PAYMENTS

Is it a scam if someone directs you to pay a debt or other obligation with a gift card? The answer is yes - in 100% of cases. But alarmingly, 1 in 4 people surveyed by AARP got this question wrong - at a time when we're seeing an increase in the use of "payment by gift card" as a scam tactic.

Since 2018, gift cards have been one of the most popular forms of payment requested by criminals according to the Federal Trade Commission. Gift cards are easy to access, virtually untraceable and less likely to raise red flags. As soon as the card numbers are shared with the scammer, the money - and the scammer - disappears.

AARP's survey also found that one in three US adults have either been asked to pay for some obligation with a gift card or know someone who has, and one in ten have followed through with the request. Help spread the word. Anytime you are directed to pay a debt or other obligation with a gift card, it is a scam.

SCAM ALERT #2:

VACCINE SURVEYS

Con artists are trying to take advantage of the millions of Americans who have received their COVID vaccines by sending fake surveys asking about their experience. These emails and texts look legitimate and may even include the logos of the vaccine manufacturers, but what they are really looking for is your sensitive personal information.

Three things included in these "surveys" let you know they are a scam. First, they offer a prize for participating. Second, the message says you need to reply "right away." And third, if you do engage with the "survey" you are asked to provide a credit card or other payment information.

SCAM ALERT #3:

RETAIL REFUND SCAMS

A burgeoning scam impersonates Amazon or another big retailer, claiming you are owed a refund and that you need to call a number or click a link to get it processed. These paths always lead to a scammer - who will try and convince you to allow them to remotely access your device.

They will "show" you the refund owed (let's say it's $100). Then they will convince you to sign into your bank account online so the can "show" you the deposit they are ready to make - only they show you a fake page in which it appears they mistakenly refunded you $10,000, for example. They swear they will be fired if you don't help recover the mistake, and ultimately seek to convince you to send the money back by purchasing a prepaid debit or gift card for the amount and reading the numbers off the back.

Know this - retailers don't work this way. And anytime you are asked to purchase a gift card - to buy something, to pay an obligation - anything, it's a scam 100% of the time.

SCAM ALERT #4:

RENTAL PROPERTY SCAMS

The post-pandemic demand for travel has the summer travel industry booming. But, rather than looking to hotels for overnight stays, travelers are increasingly looking at home rentals. While these properties offer privacy and distance from crowds, they could pose threats to consumers' wallets.

Crooks steal photos and descriptions of properties on real estate websites, then advertise rentals at rock-bottom prices. After a deal is struck - typically by email - renters are asked for payment upfront - often by purchasing a gift card (Google Play is a common one) and sharing the numbers off the back. When they arrive, they discover that the rental doesn't exist, or that the actual owner isn't renting it. When renting your vacation getaway this summer, book on websites you know and trust and do your homework to verify that the property really exists and is a rental. Watch out for anyone who ask you for payment by anything other than a credit card.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Report scams to local law enforcement. Contact the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatch-network for more information on fraud prevention.

$375,000 Raised For Maria Droste Counseling Services

Maria Droste Counseling Services (MDCS) netted over $375,000 in its first-ever virtual fundraiser, "MAS-Kerade for Mental Health," held in the studios of QATV April 29.

Sidelined by the pandemic a year ago, the counseling non-profit was unable to hold its annual fundraiser in 2020 but bounced back this year with a much higher donation total than usual.

A substantial gift from the Flatley Foundation, in recognition of a greater need than ever for mental health services, was a significant factor in MDCS exceeding its fundraising goal, according to Executive Director Michael Shanahan. With the money raised through the virtual fundraiser, Shanahan says the deficit from the past year has been erased. He also reported that nearly all of MDCS's long-time sponsors and donors gave more this year than in the past.

"It is incredibly humbling to have the backing of community members and businesses who recognize and validate the work we are doing and support our mission to lower the cost of mental health and holistic therapy sessions for people who desperately need it — especially this past year with the pandemic," Shanahan said. He noted MDCS staff have held over 6,000 sessions of mental health therapy in the last 12 months, a record number for the agency.

Maria Droste Counseling Services has operated out of Quincy Center since 1992 when the Sisters of the Good Shepherd first began their mission to bring affordable and professional mental health counseling to the area.

Sister Elish McPartland said, "When the Sisters of the Good Shepherd opened MDCS, they had very little money but a large amount of faith that generous people would help them. That faith in the generosity of good people is certainly evident in the support we received in our first virtual fundraiser."

Shanahan began his tenure in 2013 as the first layperson to guide the agency, after the sudden death of Sr. Lorraine Bernier. Since then, the staff has doubled from 15 to 30 providers.

Shanahan explained the increased need for mental health care: "Because of a stigma around mental health, our work has largely been done away from the spotlight. But more recently, especially because of the pandemic, there's a growing acceptance of the need for therapy and holistic health."

The agency's sliding-fee scale makes therapy affordable for those without insurance; MDCS also accepts most insurance plans.

"Our phones have been ringing like never before," Shanahan said. "In addition to our sliding fee scale, there's also the recognition of the professional quality of our work as well as our compassionate approach, which has shaped and defined the staff, including me."

Stacey Campbell, who led the planning for the virtual fundraiser, expressed thanks for the sponsors and donors, "especially this year when we had to switch gears and try a fundraiser that was completely online. The response of the community has been amazing."

Shanahan added, "I couldn't more grateful for our staff, Board of Directors, our friends at QATV, all our donors, and the incredibly generous support from the Flatley Foundation. They all have made it possible for us to keep our doors open, even through and beyond a pandemic."

Maria Droste Counseling Services' staff of licensed clinical social workers, mental health counselors, marriage & family therapists, and holistic Reiki practitioners cover a wide range of specialties that include marriage therapy, post-separation/divorce support, treatment for anxiety and depression, grief counseling, spiritual direction, and stress management. The agency's clients include children, adolescents, and adults coming for Individual, Couples, Family and Group Therapy.

QCAP Awarded $25,000 Grant To Address Food Insecurity

Increase Impact Of Southwest Community Food Center

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) has been awarded a $25,000 grant from Project Bread to address food insecurity in Quincy and the surrounding region. The funding will increase the impact of the organization's Southwest Community Food Center, specifically for many individuals and families who have been hardest hit by the COVID-19 public health and economic crises.

Addressing food insecurity for low-income households has been at the core of QCAP's mission since its inception in 1965. The pandemic has put a spotlight on the stark issue of food access for residents in the region. Since March 2020, QCAP has seen a 50% increase in families visiting our food center for the first time, including a 21% increase in families with children and a 22% increase in seniors. In addition, QCAP has seen a 50% increase in Latinx clients and a 37% increase in Asian clients seeking food assistance.

Over the past year, QCAP has served 5,100 unduplicated individuals from Quincy and the surrounding communities with 765,000 meals. QCAP also launched a food delivery program, in partnership with Bay State Community Services, which has provided over 575 food deliveries to COVID-positive households and homebound elders across Quincy and Weymouth.

The Project Bread funding will help QCAP to expand existing outreach and language capacity services to ensure that communities of color and non-English speaking clients in Quincy have more access to food security programming.

"Project Bread is committed to addressing inequities that stand as barriers to food access for all," said Erin McAleer, president and CEO, Project Bread. "While we are fighting hunger at both the federal and state levels, there is also a critical need to address food insecurity within our local communities. We are excited to partner with Quincy Community Action Programs to support the incredible work they are doing on the ground in Quincy, connecting residents hardest hit by the pandemic with the food resources they need."

"This partnership with QCAP is a welcome move toward our goal of walking hand in hand with our neighbors, our local communities, to develop anti-hunger policies so no one has to worry about putting food on the table," McAleer added.

The Southwest Community Food Center is located at 1 Copeland St. in Quincy. As a cornerstone in the Southwest Quincy Community, QCAP's Food Center is the largest, most accessible local food pantry, open five days a week, 7 hours per day, with extended hours on Wednesdays to accommodate working families. QCAP's Food Center provides no-charge nutritious food orders, SNAP application assistance, WIC and MassHealth referrals, Pop-

Up Pantries, Food Deliveries, Nutritional Education, and more.

"QCAP is thrilled to continue our decades-long partnership with Project Bread through this opportunity to help fight the urgent challenges of food security for low-income families," said QCAP Chief Executive Officer Beth Ann Strollo. "Project Bread's Community Partnerships Program aligns with QCAP's mission to address conditions caused by economic inequities."

QCAP serves over 28,000 unduplicated individuals annually in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Hull and more than 80 surrounding Norfolk County, Metro Boston & South Shore communities. QCAP also provides housing assistance, fuel assistance, early education and care including child care vouchers, adult education programs, financial coaching, and free tax services. For more information on QCAP's Southwest Community Food Center call: 617-471-0796 or visit <https://www.qcap.org/our-programs/food-nutrition/#southwest> and www.qcap.org.

O'Donnell Reports Healthy Real Estate Activity In Norfolk County

As communities are starting to get back to normal and the COVID restrictions are starting to be lifted, Register of Deeds William O'Donnell reports the increases seen in real estate activity in Norfolk County are continuing. The month of April in 2021 saw increases in a number of real estate indicators over the same time period in 2020.

"The Norfolk County real estate market continues to be strong," O'Donnell said. "There were 17,744 documents recorded at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds in April which is a 53% increase over last year's April document volume. There were 1,693 deeds recorded out of this document volume, representing a 54% increase over April of last year. Average sale price, again including both residential and commercial sales, increased 45% over 2020 to $1,163,838.48. Last year's April real estate numbers were at the beginning of the onset of COVID-19 and the COVID-19 emergency declarations so it is pleasing to see that the real estate market has been vibrant and stable as we start to return to our daily lives."

Low inventory of properties for sale are keeping prices for real estate up. Low interest rates are helping buyers afford the home prices of these properties. The county unemployment rate in Massachusetts was reported as 6.8%. However, in 5 of the 14 Counties in Massachusetts the unemployment rate is lower than 6.8%. Norfolk County is one of those counties in the lower unemployment rate category.

In addition to real estate sales, the Norfolk County lending market has been very busy in April. There were 4,212 mortgages recorded during the month which is a 21% increase over 2020. Total amount of money borrowed for mortgages county wide was almost 2 billion, a 23% increase compared to April 2020.

"While some of the mortgages are due to purchases and sales of real estate, there are a large number of individuals and families taking advantage off historically low interest rates by refinancing existing mortgages. Individuals have different motivations to refinance," O'Donnell said. "Some refinance to reduce their monthly payments, others to take some years off their debt while still others are using the money to pay for home improvements and other capital expenditures."

O'Donnell continued: "There has been a strong demand for housing, single family housing particular, coupled with a limited supply of available housing stock and historically low interest rates which could be motivating buyers to do what is necessary to secure housing. Lending activity was up. The growth in numbers seen in 2020 continues into 2021."

A moratorium on foreclosures in place during the pandemic in 2020 was lifted on Oct. 17, 2020. This moratorium was in place due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds has been closely watching the foreclosure market.

"During April of 2021 there were 6 foreclosure deeds recorded as a result of foreclosure processes taking place in Norfolk County. Additionally, there were 4 Notices to Foreclosure Mortgages, the first step in the foreclosure process, recorded here in Norfolk County," O'Donnell said. "A foreclosure recording is very impactful on those being foreclosed on. April of 2020 there was only 1 Notices to Foreclosure Mortgages and 13 foreclosure Deeds. Though it is great to see that the Foreclosure deed numbers have decreased by more than half, we will continue to watch these numbers."

O'Donnell noted the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds has also been working in close cooperation with Attorney General Maura Healey's office to ensure there are no abuses being perpetrated against homeowners while the COVID-19 state of emergency is ongoing.

Additionally, for the past several years, the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds has partnered with Quincy Community Action Programs, 617-479-8181 x376, and NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, 508-587-0950 to help anyone facing challenges paying their mortgage. Another option for homeowners is to contact the Massachusetts Attorney General's Consumer

Advocacy and Response Division (CARD) at 617-727-8400.

"If you are having difficulty paying your monthly mortgage, please consider contacting one of these non-profit agencies for help and guidance," O'Donnell said.

Homestead recordings by owners of homes and condominiums continue to increase this year at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds in April. There was a 44% increase in homestead recordings in April 2021 compared to April 2020.

"A Homestead," noted O'Donnell, "provides limited protection against the forced sale of an individual's primary residence to satisfy unsecured debt up to $500,000. It is great to see folks protecting the biggest asset most of us have, our homes. I would urge anyone who has not availed themselves of this important consumer protection tool to consider doing so. Please visit the Registry website at www.norfolkdeeds.org to get more information on homestead protection."

In conclusion, O'Donnell said: "Many small businesses and specific sectors of our economy, such as restaurant and hospitality, have been negatively impacted by the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. One sector that has continued to thrive during the pandemic is the real estate market, particularly the residential market. There have been many factors that have kept the Norfolk County real estate market viable. Motivated buyers and sellers, low interest rates, and the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds remaining open for the recording of land documents. While the Registry of Deeds building in Dedham remains closed to the general public, we at the Registry remain open operationally to serve our customers, the residents of Norfolk County and real estate professionals alike. By listening to public health officials, practicing social distancing, making sure all staff are wearing masks and taking any and all other steps necessary, the Registry of Deeds has remained open for business. Land documents are being recorded electronically for many of our institutional users. We are also receiving documents via regular mail, Federal Express and from those placed in our drop-off box located just outside our main entrance at 649 High Street, Dedham, MA. As your Norfolk County Register of Deeds, I want to thank all of you for the co-operation, patience and understanding you have shown myself and the Registry staff while this pandemic has been ongoing."

Quincy College, Housing Authority Host Open House To Provide Courses Through CDBG-CARES Funding From City Of Quincy

Quincy College held an open house at the Quincy Housing Authority's Support Services Educational Facility in Germantown in an effort to register students for both credit and non-credit courses at Quincy College. The initiative provides financial support to those who have experienced job loss due to the COVID-19 pandemic or are eligible due to financial hardship.

In partnership with Mayor Thomas Koch, the college was awarded a total of $430,350 from the City of Quincy through a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) made possible by the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) funds.

Quincy College President Rick DeCristofaro, Koch and their respective staffs worked together to identify local employment needs and developed a plan to address them in partnership with Quincy College.

"Partnerships like this are vital to Quincy College as we look to the future," De-

Cristofaro said at the event. "I am grateful to be here in Germantown to work with Quincy residents most affected by the pandemic to ensure they find opportunity at Quincy College."

Koch had discussed the program during his State of the City Address as part of a broader emphasis on securing the college's future and continuing to build the school's reputation as one of New England's most successful workforce-training institutions.

"This program will benefit so many of our neighbors who were unduly impacted by the economic fallout of the pandemic," he said. "This is precisely the kind of program that has long been at the heart of the College's mission, and the City could not be more proud to support the great work of Dr. DeCristofaro and the Board of Governors in these efforts."

Community Development Office, the South Shore YMCA, and Quincy College.

The event was well attended with over 60 residents attending and signing up for training and classes at the college. Additionally,

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy, Quincy Planning Director James Fatseas, Quincy Housing Director James Marathas and Senior Executive Director at the South Shore YMCA Patrick Murphy all attended the event and spoke with the residents during the day.

McCarthy, who assisted in planning the open house, said "It is important the city and the college combine resources to provide residents of the Quincy Housing Authority educational programs, training, and necessary resources, during a period of economic hardship for many of the families who live here."

Fatseas added, "We are grateful to Mayor Koch, Sean Glennon and the Community Development Office of the City of Quincy, for supporting Quincy College and creating new opportunities to provide academic and job placement services to City residents at no charge."

"Here at the Quincy Housing Authority we are very pleased residents took time out of the day to come here and see what the city and college has to offer. Hopefully future events like this can be scheduled, and more residents can be given the same opportunity," Marathas said.

Quincy College Workforce Development Coordinator Rhiannon Gorham reported after the event 48 residents had enrolled in classes and training, with more still being processed.

Enrollment is open. For more information, contact Rhiannon Gorham, rgorham@quincycollege.edu, or by phone at 617-984-1723.

FEMA Provides Funeral Assistance Support To Those Who Have Lost Loved Ones

FEMA is providing financial assistance for COVID-19-related funeral expenses incurred after Jan. 20, 2020, under the Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act of 2021 and the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021.

Applications will only be taken over the phone by calling 844-684-6333 (TTY: 800-462-7585) from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. EDT, Monday through Friday. Multilingual services are available. Interested applicants should visit Funeral Assistance FAQ | FEMA.gov to learn more about documentation required to complete your application.

There is no current end date for the application period, so you do not have to rush or worry that you will run out of time to register for assistance.

To be eligible for funeral assistance, applicants must meet these conditions:

- The death must have occurred in the United States. The applicant must be a U.S. citizen, non-citizen national or qualified alien who incurred funeral expenses after Jan. 20, 2020.
- The death certificate must indicate the death was attributed to COVID-19.

• There is no requirement for the deceased person to have been a U.S. citizen, non-citizen national or qualified alien.

Once an applicant has registered for assistance, documentation can be submitted online through <https://www.fema.gov/disasters/coronavirus/economic/funeral-assistance>, or by fax 855-261-3452. Documents may also be mailed to: COVID-19 Funeral Assistance P.O. Box 10001 Hyattsville, MD 20782.

Hamel-Lydon Chapel Accepting Applications For Compassionate Service Award

Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts (Hamel-Lydon) is offering ten (10) $500 awards to candidates who are home health aides, hospice care aides or certified nursing assistants. Qualifying candidates are invited to apply for the award.

Hamel-Lydon recognizes and appreciates the special care and dedication that firsthand healthcare workers provide to their patients. In the spirit of compassionate service, Hamel-Lydon is proud to honor individuals by granting its Compassionate Service Award for its second year to healthcare workers who apply and are selected for the award. The awardees' respected agencies will also receive a stipend.

Christopher P. Goulet, president and funeral director of Hamel-Lydon, said, "We are excited to once again offer this award to ten deserving individuals who exemplify compassionate service and care. Through this award, Hamel-Lydon Chapel is proud to recognize and highlight healthcare professionals who provide the same compassion we embrace in caring for our families and their loved ones."

Visit HamelLydon.com for more information or to apply. Applications are due Sept. 15.

Contact Lola Tom, director of Community Development at (617)472-5888 or e-mail Lola@HamelLydon.com with inquiries.

funding for local recreation, civic services, and transportation; $25,000 was allocated for Penn's Hill Neighborhood Association, $50,000 was allocated for improvements to Faxon Park, and $110,000 was allocated to the Marina Bay Ferry Service. In addition, the House delegation secured funding for important local public safety programs. Quincy Fire Department's Hazmat Program received $50,000, and the State Police received $95,000 for dedicated seasonal overtime patrols of Wollaston Beach and Furnace Brook Parkway.

"This budget meets the needs of our residents who have endured an unprecedented level of health and economic challenges over the past year. The House continues to support the services and programs that have proven to be essential for so many, while making targeted investments to grow the Massachusetts economy," Mariano said.

"I thank Chair Michlewitz for his leadership and guidance, the members of the Committee on Ways & Means, and all my colleagues in the House for their advocacy and hard work in shaping the final product."

"I'm pleased to have joined with my colleagues in passing a budget that invests in education, economic development, and recovery in the wake of the pandemic," Ayers said. "Working with the delegation, I'm especially glad to see our amendments for Quincy included, providing funds for important things like the Marina Bay Ferry, the Quincy Hazmat team, and Quincy Asian Resources. I appreciate Speaker Mariano's leadership on this budget and know it will have positive impacts on Quincy, my district, and the entire state."

Notable in the FY22 budget is an increased focus on education funding, with the spending plan including a $219.6 million increase over FY21 to Chapter 70 education aid to school districts for a total of $5.503 billion. The spending plan puts the 2019 school finance reform law known as the Student Opportunity Act (SOA) back on schedule by fully funding the first year of a six-year implementation plan of the SOA after the pandemic disrupted what was supposed to be the first year in 2020. The Student Opportunity Act is estimated to inject an extra $1.5 billion in public schools by 2027. In addition, a $40 million reserve has been created to provide school districts funding to assist students in returning to public schools.

The spending plan also reflects the House's commitment to ensuring children have access to high-quality early education and care by including a $20 million investment in rate increases for childcare providers across the Commonwealth, and supporting continuing education opportunities at community colleges, with $100,000 for student support at Quincy College. Housing and homelessness funding also saw major increases, with $148 million for the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program; $84 million for Public Housing Subsidies, $12.5 million for Alternative Housing Voucher Program; and $56.4 million for Homeless individual shelters. Further, the budget provides much-needed resources to mental health and substance abuse treatment and mitigation, allocating $160 million to the Bureau of Substance Addiction Services, which will help create five new recovery centers across Massachusetts and preserve the Massachusetts Access to Recovery program designed to help individuals seeking support with substance use disorder (SUD).

"Happy to work with my colleagues to pass a healthy and strong budget for the 2022 fiscal year" Hunt said. "Our communities, youth, high risk, and those most in need and hardest hit by Covid-19 will benefit from increased funding for programs and services."

As the Massachusetts economy continues to reel from the effects of the pandemic, the lawmakers said the House is committed to building back the economy by supporting investments that will guide the state in forging a pathway out of the COVID-19 crisis. Among these measures was Chan's amendment to permanently remove the sunset from the state's film production tax credit, opening the door to job creation and bolstering economic development.

"This House's state budget ensures that both statewide and local commitments are met," Chan said. "We were able to fulfill our commitments to education, local aid, public safety, and healthcare even during the challenges of COVID-19. The elimination of the sunset clause for the film tax credit is going to be an important part of our pandemic economic recovery given the devastating impact on our hospitality and tourism industries."

The House also solidified its commitment in addressing the alarming rise of AAPI hate and bias-motivated crimes in the Commonwealth and across the nation last year. As a member of the House Asian Caucus, Chan filed a number of amendments that were approved by the delegation and passed by the House. The amendments included allocating $300,000 to the Asian American Institute at UMass Boston to study the experiences and history of anti-Asian racism in Massachusetts and the United States, and increased the funding for the Asian American Commission to $250,000, providing the Commission much-needed resources to increase capacity and programming on issues affecting Asian-American and Pacific Islander communities across the Commonwealth. It was a priority for the House Asian Caucus and the House to support members of the AAPI community in Quincy and across the Commonwealth and take steps towards a more inclusive environment.

Speaker Mariano and the House Ways & Means Committee introduced their FY22 budget on April 14, 2021, following a review of the Governor's proposal and a series of budget hearings. After three days of debate and over a thousand proposed amendments, the budget passed by the House of Representatives 160-0 and now goes to the Senate.

Group Advocates Mayor Establish Dept. Of Social Justice

Letter to the Editor:

In the interest of sharing information about what's going around town, we thought we'd let people know that on April 13, 2021, a group of concerned citizens met with the Mayor to discuss his resistance/rejection of the City Council's Ordinance of Jan. 19, that a Department of Social Justice be formed to address issues of racism and inequity in the city. We are all long-term residents of Quincy, except for Reverend Rebecca Froom, of the UFPC (United First Parish Church), and involved in many civic activities among us, volunteering in gardens, libraries, school activities and church boards, to name a few.

As a group we were advocating that the mayor enact the Ordinance to set up the Department and hire one employee to develop it. After a thorough discussion, Mayor Koch told the group that he had no intention of changing his mind on the topic, and had not even viewed the recorded City Council meeting of Jan. 19th. He preferred to follow his own plan of setting up an unpaid volunteer committee to once again look into the needs of the community, despite all the groundwork already done by the Council.

He did say that he was almost finished with developing this committee, and was awaiting only one more assent from the ninth member before he would announce his personnel and the meetings to begin. He also stated that they would be government meetings, and as such, open to the public.

That was about one month ago, and we are still awaiting news about these action steps of vital interest to all who look to the day when our city can begin to openly and fairly address racism and begin to eradicate its painful effects in our city.

To view the City Council Meeting of Jan. 19, 2021, and to hear multiple testimonies from our fellow citizens about their personal experiences, and the vote of the City Council on the ordinance, click on this link to YouTube. <https://youtu.be/MNOGNI3F6k>

And here's a link to a very informative petition which can provide you with lots of information documenting needs in the community, as well as a place to show your support for a Department Of Social Justice and Equity with your signature.

Opposes City Spending Money For Quincy College

I am opposed to the City of Quincy acquiring and spending money for Quincy College.

The taxpayers of Quincy need a break from the non-stop expenses we are burdened with. Let Quincy College join the state system of community colleges. Tearing down the Munroe Building will drive out businesses from an ideal location.

Also, I am opposed to a Performance Center in Quincy Center. We have a high school with a beautiful auditorium that could easily accommodate performances. The Reagle Theatre in Waltham has used their high school for performances for years.

Quincy needs a moratorium on the constant demolition and construction.

Urges Councillors To Support Plan For Quincy College

(A copy of the following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun for publication.)

Dear Councillors:

I am an alumnus (of Quincy College).

I am pleased to hear the Mayor and the Quincy City Council have a plan to provide Quincy College its home turf. I also believe the group of Quincy Public Schools parents who decades ago have given birth to this institution will be very proud to hear today Quincy College has lived up to their expectations.

Instead of becoming to an end Quincy College journey has just started; it's like a rebirth.

The necessary land acquisition and design funding for Quincy College were longtime overdue.

Sixty (60) years in a wait and see perspective are a living proof people believe in higher education.

Despite the college nomadic life, gubernatorial body, constituents, professors, and staff have never stopped to feed this school with what they have in terms of expertise and qualifications.

Today I am very humble and grateful to add my voice to theirs (e.g.) I am expressing my unequivocal support for the 1st phase of the proposal - the necessary land acquisition and design funding - to give Quincy College its own building for long-term stability, for strategic financial planning and expansion in the future.

I hope others will add their voice to mine to convince the Quincy City Council this is the right thing to do - Give Quincy College its Own Building for A Brighter Future - feet of spacing between students, Laura Owens, the assistant to the superintendent, said following the meeting. Families will still be spaced six feet apart in the stands. Masks will be required for all in attendance.

In the event of inclement weather, the commencement ceremony would be moved to a different day, Owens said, rather than indoors. Neither high school's gym would have enough room to accommodate the entire graduating class and their families under the current state guidelines, she said.

The district is also planning a pair of outdoor events for later in June that would serve as a replacement to the traditional indoor prom.

Quincy High's event would be held Friday, June 18, with North Quincy High's on Saturday, June 19. Both would take place at Merrymount Park in the parking lot near the World War II memorial.

Mulvey said the district wants to do something special for the senior class.

"These seniors missed out on their junior prom last year, and if they had missed out on this event, they would have missed both their junior and senior prom," he said.

"It is something we have heard pretty consistently from parents, particularly parents of high school seniors, that we really needed to do something for high school seniors. I am happy to report we can do it, and we can do it safely."

The event will take place under a large tent setup over the parking lot, with enough room to accommodate all the twelfth graders, and will include food and entertainment.

"It will be a very memorable event for our seniors, and I just want to thank everyone involved," Mulvey said.

The events are being held later in June to lower the risk of in-school transmission of COVID-19, Mulvey said.

"This will be happening, by design, after the end of school year so as to minimize any in-school transmission," he stated.

Committee members welcomed the announcement.

"This is wonderful news. It really is," said Emily Lebo. "I know at the last meeting I said I wish we could have a dance, so I am thrilled we are going to be able to do that and I think it can be done safely outside. I'm very, very happy about this."

"I think it is a great idea for the kids, no question about it," Douglas Gutro added.

Gutro asked Mulvey if students would be allowed to invite guests to the outdoor prom, like a significant other, with the events being held later in June to minimize the risk of coronavirus spread in the schools. Mulvey said there would not be enough space available under the tent to allow guests.

"Right now, under the tent we can safely socially distance about 400," the superintendent said.

The final day of school for high school seniors is Wednesday, June 2. Mulvey said students from both high schools had been circulating a petition to move that date up, but the district cannot do so because June 2 is the earliest date for seniors to leave under state law.

"Because of state law, that's just not possible," he said. "We're not just picking an arbitrary sign-out date. We have to actually follow the law and the regulations as written."

use that funding to replace bridges.

Grazioso identified two dozen streets that would be repaved, either partially or entirely, this year in a memo to councillors earlier in April.

They are: Darrow Street, Mears Avenue, Shed Street, Baxter Avenue, Shea Street, Ardell Street, Division Street, Harriet Avenue, Pope Street, Small Street, Ames

Street, Willard Street, Westson Avenue, Wolcott Road, Morgan Road, Ridgeway Street, Sims Road, Sturtevant Road, Waterston Avenue, Dimmock Street, East Squantum Street, Ocean Street, Sharon Road, Williams Street and Albion Road.

The councillors also approved a $40 million bond for water system improvements, which will be paid back out of the city's water enterprise fund. Grazioso had said the city would spend $8 to $9 million each year on water mains, supplemented with funding from the MWRA.

He identified 20 streets where water mains would be replaced this year: Arnold Street, Avalon Avenue, Phipps Street, Quincy Avenue, Becket Street, Evans Street, Harriet Avenue, Montclair Avenue, Ruthven Street, Sagamore Avenue, Sterling Street, Quarry Street, Phillips Street, Filbert Street, Stedman Street, Wayland Street, Hancock Street, Parke Avenue, Standish Road and Dunns Hill Road.

Councillors also approved $4.6 million for sewer system improvements this year, an additional $6.5 million for sewer work from a special state financing programming, and $3.18 million from a different state financing program for water quality and stormwater planning purposes.

Grazioso, during the April council meeting, said the city would save money in the long run by addressing streets and the infrastructure beneath them at the same time.

"A lot of the costs in these roads is we have to do full-depth reclamations, because we are digging up the road and putting sewer, water and gas in," he said.

"When we take care of that infrastructure now – and I wish somebody had done it 20 or 30 or 40 years ago – that infrastructure will last for 100 years. Twenty years from now, when we go back and start to look at some of these roads, it is going to cost a loss less to fix these roads. We will just be doing grind and overlay or microsealing, which is a lot less money."

Library Branches Back Open By Summer's End

projects inside the buildings with them closed to the public. A restroom at the Adams Shore branch, for example, was renovated before that building reopened late last year.

"A lot of work was done at the Adams Shore branch before it opened in December," Allen said. "They converted one of the public restrooms to be an accessible family restroom. That is just one of many things they did to improve the facility."

The carpeting will soon be replaced at the main library, which will also have a new floor plan when it reopens this summer.

"At the main library, we have been implementing our revised space plan," Allen said. "The staff has been shifting collections all over the building and getting ready for our carpeting project, which is about to start."

"When we reopen the main library and it has all new carpets to replace the wrinkled, duct-taped mess that is in there now, we are going to welcome you all back," she added. "You are going to love the new look. Soon, I will see you in the library."

An interior renovation project is also underway at the North Quincy branch.

"The goal is to have the interior renovation work done by the end of June and ready for the new shelving to be installed. We are replacing all of the shelving, including the fixed stacks in the back of the branch. That will be delivered at some point in July and installed," Allen said.

"All the contents of the branch are currently in storage – all the collections and all the furniture. Once the shelving is installed, we will have the contents of the building moved back in and then it is going to take us a little while to get the building ready for the public to come in again."

Allen said the North Quincy branch could have a soft reopening in August followed by a grand opening in September.

"Nobody is more eager than we are to get that branch open again," she stated. "It is a very busy branch, very important to that end of the city. It has been very frustrating and who knew that COVID would come and make it all take so long."

"I will certainly do everything in my power to get the branch open by the time school starts."

With the buildings closed to the public, the library has offered a variety of programming online. Allen said some programs will be livestreamed in the future, after the buildings reopen, because more people can access them that way.

"What we found is we are actually able to reach more people through online programming than we could in-person, simply because our meeting room is only so big, and also it is accessible to people who may not be able to come into the building," she said.

"As we look forward to a post-COVID programming environment, we will be looking at livestreaming some of our in-person programs, so we continue to provide that wide accessibility to the community."

tion of the new building is expected to cost $100 million and it could be ready to open ahead of the 2026-27 academic year.

Under the mayor's proposal, the city would pay the full cost of the project and the college would pay rent equal to its share of the debt service for the project.

The proposal to construct the new building got a lukewarm reception from councillors on April 26, when the finance committee began its review of the initial $23 million bond. During the meeting, several councillors questioned the concept of building a new home for the college.

"If we say no to this building, it is not Quincy College's demise," Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain said at the time. "[The question] is how do we reposition Quincy College for its success and that to me would include finding resources that are not necessarily bonded numbers to buy valuable real estate in the downtown on speculation."

"Everyone has utilized it and it is a unique thing for the city, but I think we also have to weigh what the cost-benefits are and what it is going to be on the taxpayers," Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan Jr. said.

"That is something we have to work on."

Last week, councillors approved in a 7-0 vote a resolution – introduced by Councillors Anne Mahoney, William Harris, David McCarthy and Phelan – instructing the board of governors at the municipally owned school to "engage in conversations with the state, and to report to the City Council any operational alternatives that may be available for Quincy College," such as operating as a community college or merging with another school.

Mahoney said she wants the college to continue operating in the future but wants it to do so independent of the city.

"The college does serve a large population of people and we want to be able to continue to do that, but I'm not sure if it is correct – in fact, I know it is not correct – for that to be the burden of the Quincy taxpayers," she said last week while introducing the resolution.

Six councillors would need to vote in favor of borrowing the $23 million for it to pass, as bonds require a two-thirds vote for approval.

Baker Visits Manet Health Center Vaccination Clinic

By SCOTT JACKSON

During a visit to Quincy on Monday, Gov. Charlie Baker said community health centers and other providers will play a key role in the next stage of Massachusetts' COVID-19 vaccination effort.

Baker toured the vaccination clinic at 180 Old Colony Ave., which Manet Community Health Center is operating in concert with the city of Quincy, Monday afternoon. In his remarks following the tour, Baker noted 4 million Bay State residents – 73 percent of the state's adult population, and 60 percent of the total population – have gotten at least one shot of the COVID-19 vaccine, and 2.9 million are fully vaccinated.

Community health centers, like Manet, are key to reaching the remaining population that has not yet been vaccinated, Baker said.

"We are working with health care providers, health systems, local boards of health and community health centers like this one to build a significant vaccine distribution infrastructure that will be able to effectively reach out to, connect with and vaccinate tens of thousands of residents each day, many of whom would have difficulties pursuing vaccines under the more traditional approach," the governor said.

"Once you get to the point where almost three quarters of your population has been first dosed, you need to start pursuing, as we are with our partners, additional strategies to get to that last 25 percent."

"We still have a lot of work to do to reach the folks who haven't gotten vaccinated yet, some of whom are obviously part of the wait-and-see community or are still considering it, but our goal is to reduce as many barriers as we possibly can to provide access and information and hope that they will join us in getting vaccinated."

Cynthia Sierra, Manet's CEO, said the organization has provided 26,000 vaccinations at locations in Quincy, Hull and Taunton. Manet wants to make it easier for residents to get vaccinated and will offer sessions on evenings and Saturdays, plus walk-in appointments, among other steps, Sierra said.

"We're doing pop ups – it might be a basketball court, it might be a high school, it might be a pantry, it might be a community center," Sierra added. "We have to stretch and think about how we can be more accessible to our communities."

To make it easier to get vaccinated, Baker announced all seven of the state's mass vaccination sites – including the Hynes Convention Center and Reggie Lewis Center, both in Boston, and Gillette Stadium in Foxborough – are now accepting walk-in appointments. Walk-in appointments are also available at a number of other locations, such as CVS, Stop & Shop and Walmart pharmacies.

The governor had also previously announced that four of the seven mass vaccination sites – the Hynes Convention Center, Gillette Stadium, and locations in Danvers and Natick – would close by the end of June, though everyone who gets a first dose at one of those locations will be able to get a second dose there as well. To target harder-to-reach populations, Baker said the state would provide additional vaccines to smaller-scale operations, such as regional collaboratives, mobile clinics and primary care providers.

Baker on Monday said he was "pleasantly surprised" by residents' participation in the state's vaccination program. If it continues, he said remaining restrictions on businesses could be lifted before Aug. 1, the date he is targeting for a full reopening.

"Even if vaccines started to slow down, even if we stopped seeing people get vaccinated and all the rest, we felt [Aug. 1] would probably work. But, we said at the time, if people continued to get vaccinated and people continued to get fully vaccinated and we continued to see progress on all these other metrics, that we would consider moving earlier," Baker said.

"I would say we've been pleasantly surprised by the continued participation of everyone here in the commonwealth. At this point, if everybody who has a first dose comes back and gets a second dose, we will hit 4.1 million people sometime in very early June, but, obviously, this is the sort of thing we're going to continue to pay attention to."

Five Challengers Among 13 Residents Pulling Nomination Papers

By SCOTT JACKSON

Thirteen residents had taken out nomination papers to run for office in this fall's municipal election as of noontime on Tuesday, including five challengers seeking to run against incumbents.

All nine seats on the City Council will be up for grabs this fall along with three of the six seats on the School Committee. There is no mayoral election this year in Quincy.

Three of the residents are seeking the Ward 2 seat on the council. They are incumbent Anthony Andronico of Endicott Street as well as challengers Steven Perdios of Ruggles Street and Jorgette Theophilis of Norman Road. Andronico was appointed to the Ward 2 seat in January following the resignation of long-time councillor Brad Croall.

Four other incumbent councillors have pulled papers to run for reelection: Ward 3 Councillor Ian Cain of Forbes Hill Road, Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan Jr. of Fenno Street, Ward 6 Councillor William Harris of Ashworth Road, and at-large Councillor Noel DiBona of Chickatabot Road. No challengers had emerged for those seats as of noon on Tuesday.

Six residents have taken out papers to run for School Committee, including incumbents Douglas Gutro of Arnold Street, Emily Lebo of Highland Avenue and Courtney Perdios of Ruggles Street as well as challengers Ellen Patterson O'Donnell of Hatherly Road, Liberty Schaaf of Howe Street and Liz Speakman of Merrymount Road. Perdios was appointed to her seat in February during a joint convention, filling Andronico's spot on the committee; the three challengers were also nominated for the

Q Pride Day Festival June 6

Quincy Pride will hold its annual festival at Pageant Field on Sunday, June 6, from noon to 4 p.m. with COVID precautions.

The team is looking forward to hosting an afternoon of different performances, equipped with food and beer trucks, community, and LGBTQ+ vendor tables, raffle items, social-distanced activities, and some fun surprises.

Quincy Pride is a non-profit/501(c)(3) that put on the first Quincy Pride Day in 2018. Traditionally held on the first Sunday of the Pride month (June in Massachusetts), the 2019 event attracted around 2,000 people. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, last June's virtual event went along with a Pride flag display at the Church of Presidents to keep the momentum going.

After a Town Hall Event in March and the promising news that in person, outdoor gatherings can resume within reason and with precautions, Pageant Field will again be home for the Q Pride Day celebration.

Drag performances featuring some of the biggest names in Provincetown and Boston, raffle items, live music and a DJ will go along with a family friendly puppeteer and some fun, Pride-themed contests this year. Masks are encouraged and hand-sanitizing stations will be spread out. Community nonprofit and vendor tables will be spaced out around the field and capped off at a reasonable number. There will be the first-ever Prideful Puppy contest with more details still in the works and awards for which vendor tables are the best decorated.

A volunteer organization that promotes LGBTQ+ inclusive, equality, and respect through this and other annual events in the City of Quincy and the neighboring South Shore communities. As of today's date, the Festival's corporate sponsors include Arbella, Bogan Tree, FoxRock, Manet Community Health Center, and Quirk.

If you would like to sponsor the event, donate a raffle item and/or host a vendor table, contact Sheika Babin (sbabin@quincypride.com) or Richard Ash (richard@quincypride.com).

Sheriff's Office Recognizes Nate Galante As Norfolk County Hero

Norfolk County Sheriff Patrick McDermott announces 10-year-old Nate Galante of Dedham has been awarded the Norfolk County Heroes Award.

Nate recently saved his mother, Sarah Galante, who has multiple sclerosis and was experiencing a pulmonary embolism, by texting his father to send for help. Because of Nate's actions,

NATE GALANTE

Sarah was able to get life-saving care quickly.

McDermott praised Nate, saying "Nate's quick thinking in crisis saved his mother and got her the care she desperately needed. Nate was able to recognize an emergency situation and knew that he needed to act quickly. His mother Sarah is alive today because of Nate's heroism."

When Nate noticed that Sarah was having trouble breathing, he immediately texted his father for help. Moments later, Sarah collapsed from oxygen deprivation. Doctors who treated her found out that she was suffering from blood clots which required open-heart surgery. She was placed in a medically-induced coma and is currently recovering in a rehabilitation center. A GoFundMe page has been set up for those interested in donating to help support her recovery. To donate, visit t.me/SarahGalante.

Nate's father, Michael Galante, says that he and Sarah consider Nate to be a true hero. "Nate was truly courageous that day. Despite his mother saying she didn't need help, he recognized that she was in an emergency and texted me. Nate's actions saved his mother's life, and we are both so very proud of him."

Nate will be presented with a citation from Sheriff McDermott at a ceremony to be held later this year because of COVID-19 precautions. He will also be featured on the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office website's Norfolk County Heroes page alongside other recipients of the award.

The Norfolk County Heroes program was created earlier this year to recognize acts of heroism, community building, and public service by residents of Norfolk County.

Wollaston Garden Club Spring Plant Sale Saturday

The Wollaston Garden Club will hold its annual Spring Plant Sale on Saturday, May 15th from 9 a.m. to noon.

The sale will take place outside at the Wollaston Congregational Church on the corner of Winthrop Avenue and Lincoln Avenue in Wollaston. The Club will be following all state COVID-19 guidelines to protect members and guests.

Wollaston Garden Club tradition has members splitting up their hardy perennials that have been successfully and beautifully grown in their gardens. There will be flowering plants, shade plants, and sun loving varieties with gardeners available to describe best planting locations and care of the plants.

This year the Club will also highlight some of New England's native plants that help to ensure healthy, biologically diverse landscapes. There will be vegetables, herbs, and some annuals as well just in time to plant in the warmed up earth.

Vacation Care For Container Gardens

By MELINDA MYERS

Planning a few long weekends or a vacation may have you rethinking your garden plans. Don't let time away from home stop you from growing flowers and vegetables in containers.

Irrigation systems with timers and self-watering pots are options to make container gardening and vacation care easier. You may, however, just be looking for ways to adapt your existing container gardening care while on vacation.

Find a plant sitter and take time to provide needed plant care instructions. It can be difficult, but you may be able to convince the person stopping by to feed the cat to water your plants. Move containers to a shady spot to extend the time between watering. Make sure the hose is handy. The easier the task, the more likely it will be done, and your plants will survive. Sweeten the deal by offering to share the harvest or return the favor when they leave town.

Create your own self-watering system with a 5-gallon bucket and strips of absorbent material like cotton fabric strips or rope to serve as wicks. Place the bucket amongst your containers. Run the fabric wick from the 5-gallon bucket into the drainage holes of your containers. As the soil dries the water will move from the water-filled bucket into the container moistening the soil. Use long wicks that reach and rest on the bottom of the bucket. Add a lid with holes for the wicks to slow evaporation.

Use an individual setup to create a water reservoir for each container. Set each pot on its own enclosed water filled container. Cut holes in the lid of the water filled container and run wicks into the drainage holes of the pot.

Test whatever system you create before leaving on vacation. You want to make sure everything is in place and working.

For short trips consider using a wine bottle or two-liter soda bottle. They can be used alone or combined with commercial products to help regulate the flow. Just punch a hole in the soil and insert a water filled wine or soda bottle. With cap in place, punch 10 holes in the bottom of the plastic bottle before filling with water and setting in the soil. Evaluate and test how many bottles you need per pot and how long they can sustain your plants.

Increase the watering-holding ability of your potting mix with a product like Wild Valley Farms' wool pellets (wildvalleyfarms.com). This organic soil additive made from wool waste holds up to 20% of its weight in water. It releases water as needed, so you do not have to water as often.

Further reduce the need to water by growing more drought tolerant plants. Zinnias, lantana, sunflowers, and succulents look beautiful and tolerate drier soil conditions.

A beautiful and productive container garden does not have to stop you from enjoying a long weekend or vacation out of town. Make plans for your container gardens as you plan your next trip.

WATER OR WINE bottles can be combined with commercial products to help regulate the flow of water to container gardens while away on vacation.

Who Made Cleaner Greener Quincy Successful

Quincy Girls' Lacrosse Rolls Over Abington, 18-1

By TOM JOYCE

Did they win? Yes. Was it close? Not at all.

The Quincy High girls' lacrosse team had their first home game of the season last Saturday, and had no issue taking down the Abington Green Wave. They scored early and often and scored so much in the first half that the game used a running clock in the second half. They won the game 18-1 to improve to 1-1 on the season.

"I think that we are moving along quite well," Presidents head coach Kelly Monaco said. "We're working well as a team and communicating. We had really good ball movement and really good settled offense."

The Presidents were dominant in the first half, putting up 13 goals as their opponent mustered one. The team also controlled the ball in the second half and took their time with possessions as they ran out the clock and continued to put the ball in the back of the net.

As the second half progressed, the team made many substitutions and was able to give many of their reserve players more playing time as a result.

Goals came from up and down the roster for the Presidents in the win. Delia Nichol led the way, putting up four goals for the Presidents, but she wasn't the only one to have at least a hat trick in the win. Captain Alyssa Ryan and Maddie Bailey finished second in goals scored against Abington; they scored three goals each. Outside of those players, Lindsey Hatfield and Alyssa Ryan had two goals each. Other players to score a goal for the Presidents include: Caroline Campbell, Chloe Lynch, Kathleen Higgins, Caroline Tracey, and Abby Codner.

As far as assists go, Ryan and fellow captain Jackie Kane led the way for the Presidents. They each had three. Other players who had assists in the victory include: Erin O'Callaghan, Chloe Lynch, Kathleen Higgins, and Maddie Bailey.

The win was the first for Monaco since taking over as the team's varsity head coach. Before Monaco took over, the head coach for the Presidents was Alisa Arakelian. The team went 6-14 in 2019, Arakelian's final season as their head coach.

Monaco got the job in February 2020 but with no spring high school sports in Massachusetts in the 2019-2020 school year due to the coronavirus pandemic, this was only her second opportunity at a win.

The Presidents started off their season on the road against Scituate May 6, but Scituate defeated them 16-6.

Monaco said that she was impressed by her team's ability to come out and perform as well as they did against Abington following the Scituate game given that the team is early in the season and hasn't had many practices thus far.

"I think it was tough only having a week or so of pre-season and tryouts and having our first game against Scituate who is a heavy hitter, but I think with everything, we're just taking it one day at a time," she said. "We're improving with every practice and every game and just taking some positives and some learning experiences with everything."

Monaco also laid out what the team's biggest focuses are moving forward as the season progresses.

"We're staying positive, we're working as a team and we've really been focusing on that," she said. "We're going back to the fundamentals to just establish where we are as a team and continue to build off that."

"Our transition game has been a big piece for us," she added. "We're just trying to build that confidence transitioning from our defense to offense."

Q/NQ Boys Lacrosse Bows To Abington, 10-5

By TOM JOYCE

Their opponent had some early success, but the Quincy/North Quincy High boys' lacrosse team fought back and was competitive.

Ultimately, the team was unable to overcome an early deficit and took a 10-5 loss to the Abington Green Wave at home last Saturday at Veterans' Memorial Stadium to drop to 0-2 on the season.

"I think it was good progression," QNQ head coach Matt Gibbons said. "We started with Scituate, who was a really good team.

We struggled and our defense played pretty much 90 percent of that game. It was good to be way more competitive. We got a little more of the rust off since we didn't have too many looks offensively in our first game. There was rust early on, but we fought back. The kids played really hard, so I think it started to click a little more. So it's a marathon for us, not a sprint."

Abington got off to a hot start in the game, scoring four unanswered goals in the first quarter.

Q/NQ first got on the board with 5:20 remaining in the first half, and Abington would lead 5-1 at half-time. Q/NQ's first goal of the game came from freshman Teddy Lynch.

Q/NQ also enjoyed some success early in the third quarter, pulling within two goals. With 9:20 remaining in it, junior captain Joe Manton rifled in the team's first goal of the second half. It wouldn't take long for the team to trim the deficit even more. He scored once again with 8:48 remaining on a sidearm shot to make it a 5-3 game.

Gibbons said Manton's performance stood out to him.

"He's a long pole for us, but he's definitely got the stick skills with the short pole," Gibbons said. "We were struggling a bit and we thought he could give us a little energy, which he did."

Abington would respond with two goals: one with 3:09 left in the quarter and another on a power play with 1:36 left on a power play. However, junior captain Will Ploof responded by putting one on the board with under a minute left for Q/NQ. He took a pass from goalie Riley O'Connell who charged deep downfield before making the pass that resulted in the shot that scored the goal.

About two minutes into the fourth quarter, Abington added to their lead with another goal. While freshman Teddy Lynch scored on a wraparound goal to make it 8-5 with 7:54 remaining, Abington scored on a power play and a fast break, and Q/NQ could not find the back of the net again.

Other than Manton, Gibbons said that Lynch and goalie Riley O'Connell played well against Abington.

He also said one challenge the team faced in the game was being without senior captain Kevin Feeney, who was at his brother's college graduation.

"That's a huge loss for us, so we're looking positively at things," Gibbons said. "We add him to the mix which is huge and then we keep building off this stuff."

Since the team is early in the season and there was no season last year due to the coronavirus pandemic, Gibbons said the focus has been on getting the team in a position to compete.

"We've got some guys who haven't played lacrosse before," he said. "Some guys walked in with no equipment at all. It's all stick skills with these guys, catching and throwing and at the same time, you're trying to get your offense together and your defense together. It's a lot.

"It's on these guys to do that extra work at home," he added. "Practice is two hours but for these guys, it's gotta be three or four of them doing this stuff at home because we don't have time to do the extra stuff during practice."

Gibbons said the team has plenty of talent, but they're on the younger side. That said, he sees potential in his team if they continue to work hard.

"We're just kind of building this," he said. "We only have four seniors, so we're going to work our butts off this year and keep it going. I think the senior leadership is going to push down to the rest of the guys to keep this going."

2021-22 School Calendar OK'd; Early Release Wednesdays

By SCOTT JACKSON

The School Committee recently approved the calendar for the upcoming academic year which will keep early release days on Wednesdays.

The committee unanimously approved the calendar for the 2021-22 academic year on May 5.

The district had previously held early release days on Tuesdays but shifted ed them to Wednesdays this year for scheduling purposes amid the pandemic. Early release days will remain on Wednesdays next school year, based on feedback received from the community.

The number of early release days each month will vary by grade level. Students in prekindergarten to grade 5 – including fifth graders at Point Webster and South West Middle Schools – will have half days each Wednesday. Grades 6 to 8 generally have two early release days each month. High schoolers and LEAP students typically have one half day each month.

The first day of school for students in grades 1 to 9 is Sept. 8, the first Wednesday after Labor Day. Students in grades 10 to 12 return to school the following day. Prekindergartners and kindergartners will have orientation on Sept. 10 and begin school on Sept. 13.

Winter break will begin Dec. 24 and end Jan. 2. February vacation will be from Feb. 19 to 27. April vacation will go from April 15 to April 24.

The final day for eligible high school seniors is June 1. North Quincy High School's graduation is scheduled for June 6 and Quincy High School's commencement will be held the following day.

The planned last day of school for other students is June 17. If five days of school are cancelled because of snow or for other reasons, the last day would be June 27. There would be no school on June 20 as the state will observe Juneteenth that day.

Two Residents Inducted Into Honor Society

Two Quincy residents were recently initiated into The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective collegiate honor society for all academic disciplines.

They are: Morgan McCarthy at Salem State University and Stacy Wiegand at Salem State University.

Outdoor Tours At Dorothy Quincy Homestead May 15

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead Committee announces they will offer the first in a series of outdoor tours at the Dorothy Quincy Homestead for the 2021 tour season on Saturday, May 15. The homestead is located at 34 Butler Rd. off Hancock Street, Quincy.

The public is invited to visit the grounds of the Homestead in celebration of the birthday of Dorothy Quincy Hancock, the first First Lady of Massachusetts and one of the three Dorothys of the Quincy family to reside at the Homestead.

Dorothy Quincy, born in Boston on May 10, 1747, was the youngest child of Edmund Quincy IV and Elizabeth (Wendell) Quincy. Affectionately known as Dolly, she spent many childhood years at the family's summer home, as the Homestead was a pleasant retreat from the summertime heat and crowds of Boston. She was 10 years old when her father went bankrupt, and for a time, the Edmund Quincy IV family made the Homestead their permanent residence before the property was sold in 1763. Although Dorothy's life story is often overshadowed by that of her famous husband, John Hancock, wealthy Boston merchant and patriot, she was considered to be the ultimate hostess during the eleven years that Hancock governed Massachusetts. She helped to make the Hancocks one of Massachusetts' first political celebrity couples.

Come visit the Homestead to hear more stories of the Quincy family and property. Docents will be available to welcome visitors and answer their questions.

Tours of the property will begin at 11 a.m. and end promptly at 2 p.m. A suggested donation of $5 to the Homestead is appreciated and gratefully accepted.

Due to on-going construction and conservation initiatives at the Homestead, the interior of the house will remain closed to the public. There are no public restroom facilities available on site.

Check the website nscdama.org/quincy-homestead or our Facebook page Quincy Homestead 1686 for any schedule changes.

Additional summer outside tours are scheduled for Saturday, June 19; Saturday, July 17; Saturday, Aug. 21 and Saturday, Sept. 18.

The Homestead was purchased in 1904 by the NSC-DA-MA. The grounds and buildings are owned by the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) and operated in cooperation with NSCDA-MA in a public-private partnership.

Only dogs on leash are allowed on the property per DCR.

Current MA COVID-19 protocols will be followed during this event. Before you visit, read the visitor safety information for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts at discoverquincy.com.

OBITUARIES

John T. Magraw, 45

JOHN T. MAGRAW

John Thomas Magraw, age 45, died April 30 at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Brighton.

Born in Norwood on March 18, 1976, he was the son of David G. and Nancy B. (Marsh) Magraw. He was raised in Walpole, where he graduated from Walpole High School with the Class of 1994. Mr. Magraw continued his education at Sewanee, The University of the South, in Tennessee, earning his bachelor's degree in 1998. Subsequently, he enrolled in a master's degree program at Babson College, graduating with the MBA class of 2003.

Mr. Magraw gave the corporate financial world a try but quickly decided his immense drive and work ethic would be better spent (and valued) if he worked for himself. Without a single look back, Mr. Magraw eagerly left the office world, taking a franchise opportunity with Quizno's Sub Sandwich Shops and opened a location in Quincy. After a lengthy struggle with the franchise parent company, Mr. Magraw boldly declared himself free from their restraints and (wittingly) founded Unchained Pizza. He grew his business, opening another shop in Dorchester, but his heart always remained in his Quincy location. He was known in the City of Quincy for his wonderful generosity, supporting the local youth sports programs and dance studios.

When Mr. Magraw wasn't hard at work, he loved attending concerts and sporting events with his family and friends. He was an avid fan of the Mighty Mighty Bosstones, ensuring he was at all of their local shows, as well as Guns N' Roses when they were in town. His favorite hometown team was easily the Boston Red Sox, and as a years-long season ticket holder, he loved spending the afternoon or evening at Fenway Park, cheering from the stands. (A close second was the Patriots, and it would be safe to say Mr. Magraw enjoyed many a tailgate party before heading in to cheer on the team). Another of Mr. Magraw's true loves was his beloved dog, Piper (a rescue). Those who met Piper were as quickly smitten with her as Mr. Magraw was, and it was no surprise he and Piper were inseparable. Also, his beloved cat Linksy, that Mr. Magraw rescued years ago from a parking lot as a feral kitten.

Mr. Magraw loved adventure, and anyone who accompanied him was usually in for an adventure as well, be it on a trip, to an event, or even as a passenger in his car. When it came to adventure, if Mr. Magraw wasn't the first person to think of it, he was the first person you went to, to ask if he was up for it (and of course; he was always up for it). His quick, pure, and genuine laugh was infectious to everyone around him.

Devoted son of David G. Magraw of Norfolk and the late Nancy B. (Marsh) Magraw. Loving brother of David E. Magraw of Walpole and William D. Magraw and his longtime partner, Tara, and her son Alden, of Norton. Cherished uncle of Samantha Magraw and (godchild) Zachary Magraw. Beloved nephew of Anna Lizier and her husband, Dennis, of Atkinson, New Hampshire, Harold Brown and his wife, Sally, of Alaska. John loved all of his cousins, Christian, Majken, Steffen, Molly and Katy. Also survived by his godchild, Shea Lacana, his best friend Nicole Abril of Quincy, as well as countless friends.

A celebration of life was held May 6 in the James H. Delaney & Son Funeral Home, Walpole.

As a result of the ongoing and ever-developing health crisis in the world and with genuine concern for the people whom they love, Mr. Magraw's family has decided that his funeral service and interment will be private.

Memorial donations may be made to the MSPCA, Attn: Donations, 350 South Huntington Ave., Boston, MA 02130 or at mspca.org.

Five Challengers Among 13 Residents Pulling Nomination Papers

seat during the joint convention.

Courtney and Steven Perdios are married, and this is believed to be the first time a wife and husband have both run for elective municipal office in the same election in city history.

The deadline to return nomination papers to the Board of Registrars is 5 p.m. on July 27 and certified nomination papers, including a statement of candidacy, must be submitted to the city clerk by 5 p.m. on Aug. 10.

The signatures of 50 registered voters are required to run for each office in a municipal election. Residents seeking one of the six ward councillor seats must obtain the signatures from within their ward.

If needed, a preliminary election would be held on Sept. 14. A preliminary election would be required if more than two candidates run for one ward council seat, or if more than six ran for either councillor at-large or the school board.

Ballot position for the preliminary election would be determined during a drawing at 10 a.m. on Aug. 13. The deadline to register to vote in the preliminary would be 8 p.m. on Aug. 25, the deadline to apply to vote by mail in the preliminary election — assuming state lawmakers allow mail-in voting this fall — would be Sept. 8, and absentee balloting would end at noon on Sept. 13.

The final election will take place on Nov. 2. The deadline to register to vote in the November election is 8 p.m. on Oct. 13, the deadline to apply to vote by mail is Oct. 27, and absentee voting ends at noon on Nov. 1.

Friends Of Butler's Pond Plant Walk June 5

The Friends of Butler's Pond (www.butlerspond.org) invite the public to join the friends on Saturday, June 5th at 10 a.m. at Butler's Pond for a Plant Walk led by Jessica Cohn, a local resident and ecologist.

The walk will consist of an approximately 45-minute in-person exploration of the pond, ecology, and identification of native and invasive plants. The walk is suitable for all ages and those interested in learning more about plants.

Walk participants should come with a mask, closed toe shoes, and meet at the corner of Merrymount Road and Marginal Road.

For more information email the Friends of Butler's Pond at butlerspond@gmail.com.

Tryouts For Morrisette Baseball Teams This Month

Morrisette American Legion Baseball announces tryouts will be held for Junior and Senior teams this month.

Tryout dates are May 16, May 22, May 23 and May 29 from noon to 3 p.m. at Bishop Field.

All players eligible to play for Morrisette Junior or Senior Legion should attend tryouts. Morrisette will play a 20-game schedule this season.

OBITUARIES

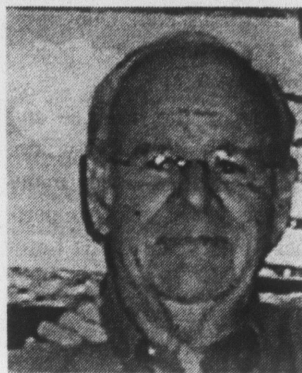

Robert M. Ward, 84

Robert Michael Ward of Quincy died peacefully, surrounded by his family, on May 4. He was 84.

Mr. Ward was born in Boston. His parents were the late Senator Michael J. Ward and Louise Ward. He graduated from Boston Technical High School in 1955 and went on to serve 4 years in the United States Air Force. After serving his country, Mr. Ward continued his service to our country as a United States Capitol Police Officer and onto the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department where he retired as a captain. In his spare time, Mr. Ward was a good neighbor and an incredible wood worker. Above all else, he loved his family.

Beloved husband of Donna Olinto Ward of Quincy. Devoted stepfather of Lisa McBirney and her husband James Aucoin of Quincy, and Bill McBirney of Quincy. Grandfather of Remy Aucoin, Montana, Madison, Makenna and Mason McBirney all of Quincy. Mr. Ward is survived by his nieces, Tanya Kahl, Lynn Johnson and Karen Clark, all of Ohio. He is also survived by his beloved dog, Lady.

ROBERT M. WARD

Mr. Ward's family would like to thank the Healey ALS Center at MA General Hospital, 55 Fruit St., Boston, MA 02114, to Compassionate Care ALS at P.O. Box 1052 in West Falmouth, MA 02574, or Seasons Hospice, 1 Edgewater Dr., S-103, Norwood, MA 02062.

Ward's family appreciated the wonderful help and friendship of his neighbors in the Puritan Loop, Quincy.

Funeral services are private. Mr. Ward's family is looking forward to gathering with a community of friends at a later date.

Memorial donations may be made to the Healey ALS Center at MA General Hospital, 55 Fruit St., Boston, MA 02114, to Compassionate Care ALS at P.O. Box 1052 in West Falmouth, MA 02574, or Seasons Hospice, 1 Edgewater Dr., S-103, Norwood, MA 02062.

OBITUARIES

Arthur 'Bud' Mosher

Arthur "Bud" Mosher, a 57-year resident of Pembroke, died May 5, surrounded by his family, after a lengthy struggle with esophageal and liver cancer.

Born in Rockland, Maine to the late Carl and Frances Hall Mosher on Oct. 31, 1934, he was the second of three siblings, and was predeceased by his brother Edward F. Mosher II, and his sister Miriam Esther Mosher. Mr. Mosher grew up in Rockland, Maine and graduated from Rockland High School in 1953, where he played football, basketball, track and baseball.

Following graduation, he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps and during his two year deployment overseas, was promoted to the rank of sergeant. Upon his discharge, Mr. Mosher attended Maine Central Institute in Pittsfield, Maine and played football, basketball and baseball. The basketball team won the New England PREP school championship in 1958.

Mr. Mosher next went to the University of Maine in Orono. He was a three-sport athlete during his freshman year playing football, basketball and baseball; he played varsity football in the three remaining years. In 1961, his senior year, the University of Maine Black Bears were undefeated. Upon graduation in 1962 he started his teaching career at Whitman-Hanson R.H.S. as an English teacher, assistant football coach and head baseball coach. After two years at WH he transferred to Quincy High School to teach English, act as the defensive coordinator for the football team, coach golf and baseball. Mr. Mosher was the head baseball coach for 12 years and was enshrined in the QHS baseball hall of fame in 2007. He finished his coaching career as the head girls softball coach.

In June of 1963, he married his college sweetheart, Patricia L. Jack of South Weymouth. In July of 1964, their first child Jeffrey was born. He was followed by Christopher, Brendan, Tiffany and Erik.

In 1969 Mr. Mosher received a grant from the government to attend a five-week Shakespearean Institute at the University of Vermont. This was the first step toward his Masters degree in Shakespeare Studies, as he continued to take courses at Bridgewater University, receiving his degree in 1976. As the quintessential Renaissance man, he enjoyed the academic and athletic sides of his job equally. Mr. Mosher enjoyed a variety of activities: he was an avid (Maine) deer hunter, saltwater fisherman, golfer, and pool player. In the 1990s he joined the New England Professional Pool Tour, and placed third in the annual Miller Lite 9-ball tournament which attracts the finest pool players from New England and beyond. He also played in the Pembroke and Hanover softball leagues well into his fifties.

His greatest enjoyments were time spent with family and friends at their cottage at Old Orchard Beach, ME, and time spent at the Maine hunting camp with his sons and grandsons. Mr. Mosher was proud of his family's military legacy. His first two sons, Jeffrey and Christopher, are retired career military officers. He also has two grandsons currently serving in the Marine Corps, and with his own military service, the Mosher family will have over 70 years spanning three generations of service. He was equally proud of his son, Brendan, following in his footsteps as a Massachusetts school teacher; his daughter Tiffany who is a corporate executive of people strategy; and his son Erik who is a residential real estate entrepreneur.

Mr. Mosher was an active member and former deacon of the First Congregational Church in Hanover, as well as a frequent lay reader, and delivered a number of lay sermons. He was also a member of the Marshfield Lodge of Elks, the Pembroke American Legion and a 52 year member of Phoenix Masonic Lodge in Hanover, where he was a three-time past master, recipient of the Joseph Warren Meritorious Service Medal and a 50-year membership ribbon.

Besides Patricia, his loving wife of 58 years, Mr. Mosher is survived by Jeffrey Kent Mosher and his wife Ellen Olivier Mosher of Acton and their children Hayden Olivier Mosher and Madelyn Grace Mosher; Christopher Scott Mosher and his wife Mary Patricia Nolan Mosher of Jamison, PA and their children Cale Christopher Mosher, Lauren Patricia Mosher and Maryn Shea Mosher; Brendan Jack Mosher of Pembroke; Tiffany Mosher Taylor and her husband Gary Andrew Taylor of Pembroke and their children Jack Robert Taylor and Kathryn Shea Taylor; Erik Hall Mosher and his wife Leandra Rogers Mosher of Pembroke and their sons LCPL Kyle Jeffrey Mosher USMC, and LCPL Quincy Allen Mosher, USMC.

Family and friends are invited to attend his wake on Saturday, May 15, from 5 to 8 p.m. at Sullivan Funeral Home, Hanover.

A memorial church service will be held at a later date followed by a private burial at the Massachusetts National Cemetery in Bourne.

Memorial donations may be made to Santa's Helpers, 44 Orchard Dr., Pembroke, MA 02359 or The Pembroke Military Support Group, 100 Center St., Pembroke, MA 02359.

Mary Geary, 86

A funeral Mass for Mary Geary, age 86, of Quincy was celebrated Monday in St. Elizabeth's Church, Milton. Ms. Geary died May 3 at the John Adams Health Care in Quincy.

She was born and raised in Carna, County Galway, Ireland and immigrated to the United States in 1958.

While in Ireland, Ms. Geary was a schoolteacher for several years and after coming to the states she worked as a customer service rep for Blue Cross Blue Shield before retiring.

Beloved sister of Bridget White of Quincy, Paraic Geary of Ireland, and the late John, Michael and Barbara Geary.

Private interment.

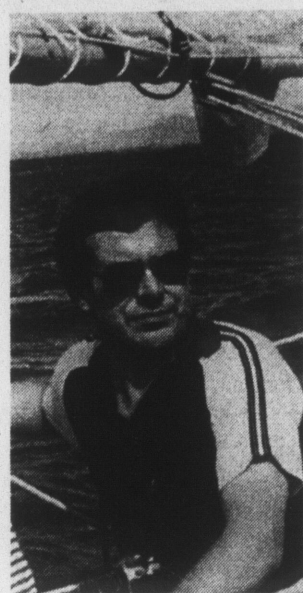

Funeral arrangements were made by the Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, Milton.

William P. Quevillon, 72

William Paul Quevillon, 72, of Quincy died peacefully April 30.

Son of the late Leo and Merle (Sennett) Quevillon. Mr. Quevillon spent many loving years with his partner of 45 years Linda Lew-Hanson of Quincy. Brother of Bruce Quevillon of Duxbury; and his children Stephanie, Lisa and Peter, Grey Quevillon of NM, Merle Kelly and her late husband James of Sandwich; and their children Tara, Jenn and the late Matthew, Michelle Houghton of Mansfield; and her children Kyle Brendan and Lauren, Suzanne Kline of Sharon; and her children the Ryan and the late Justin, and the late Leo Quevillon; and his children Michael, Cheryl, Robert and Mark.

Mr. Quevillon was a United States veteran of the Coast Guard where he trained in New York and sailed the seas in Newfoundland. He was also stationed on the Boston Light House during his land duty days at the Hull Coast Guard Station. Early in life Mr. Quevillon worked for his uncle at Concannon's and Sennett's on Commonwealth Ave, Boston. This is where he trained and learned to be a bartender, he learned all the tricks to the trade for Boston's night life. Mr. Quevillon then became a manager at The Ark bar/club on Beacon St., which also led him to a role in the liquor business with Wine Press in Boston. Mr. Quevillon also worked for 21 years at Comcast, both in Brookline and in the Needham location. He was a customer service representative and enjoyed helping others.

Some of Mr. Quevillon's favorite things to do was to travel with his loving partner

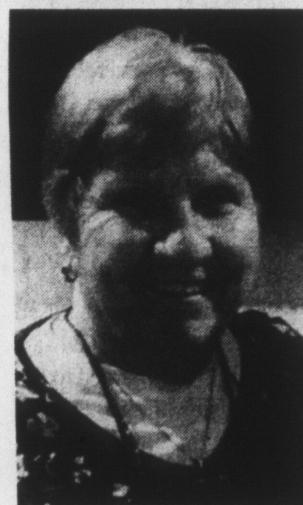

Linda; sight-seeing and going to the theater was always a must. They traveled 4 times to London, England with mini trips to Paris. They also traveled to Shannon, Ireland where they traveled by car across country to Dublin. Another trip they conquered was the Rockies; from Colorado to Arizona with spectacular sunrise and sunset tours. Then off to Reno, Nevada and to the shining coast of San Francisco, CA. William enjoyed yearly summer trips down the back roads of Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine. He also had a love for extreme sports such as glider rides at Plymouth airport, parasailing in New York and white water rafting with his buddies on the Snake River in Maine.

Mr. Quevillon will be cremated and laid to rest at sea this summer.

Memorial donations may be made to the Quincy Retired Teachers Association Scholarship Fund, c/o QRTA Treasurer, 124 Briar Lane, Westwood, MA 02090.

Funeral arrangements were made by Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts, 650 Hancock St., Quincy.

Carol Jack, 81

CAROL JACK

Carol Davidson Jack, 81, of Topsham, Maine, died April 24, surrounded by family, following a brief illness.

She was born in Quincy on Nov. 26, 1939, the daughter of Edwin F. and Mary Widlund Davidson. She graduated from North Quincy High School and attended Colby College in Waterville for 2 years. She then earned her MT degree from the Boston University Hospital School of Medical Technology.

Carol married Richard Jack following his graduation from the University of Maine. They moved to Ft. Sill Oklahoma where Richard fulfilled his military obligation as a 2nd Lt. in the Army Artillery. They then moved to the Hudson Valley area of New York state where they lived and worked for the next 36 years. Mrs. Jack worked as a medical technologist in local hospitals and doctors' offices. Their children Diane and Douglas were born in New York. Following their retirement, Carol and Richard moved to Topsham where they enjoyed living on the Androscoggin River for over 25 years.

She was a long-time member of the First Parish Church of Brunswick. She volunteered in the church office and was a member of the Board of Trustees of the First Parish Memorial Garden. She was on the Board of Directors of Merrymeeting Audubon and was a member of the Thursday Hikers and of People Plus.

Mrs. Jack loved nature and the outdoors in all seasons, enjoying bird watching, biking, hiking, camping, gardening, swimming, and skiing (both cross country and downhill).

Carol and Richard enjoyed traveling. They took many trips with their travel trailer to Florida and Cape Cod, as well as a 3-month trip across the country and back. They flew to California and Idaho every year to visit their family. They took a number of cruises to the Caribbean and to Alaska and they skied in all of the New England states as well as in Colorado, Utah and California. They spent summer and fall weeks at their cabin on Beaver Mountain Lake near Rangeley.

She is survived by her husband, Richard; their daughter Diane Delaney and her husband George (California) and children Dylan and Danielle; their son Douglas Jack and his life partner Andrea Degler (Idaho) and daughters Riley and Delaney; her sister Joyce Lewis and her husband Russ (California) and their family; her sister-in-law Connie Jack (Wyoming); and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

Mrs. Jack's ashes were interred at the First Parish Church Memorial Garden in a private ceremony. The family will have a celebration of Mrs. Jack's life at a later date in California.

Guido J. Balzano, 90

Guido J. Balzano, a longtime resident of Hingham, died peacefully May 4 at the Harbor House in Hingham. He was 90.

Born in Torre del Greco, Italy on Feb. 14, 1931, he was the son of the late Ciro and Antonietta (Belfiore) Balzano. At age three, Mr. Balzano's parents immigrated to the United States and made Quincy their new home. Upon graduating from Quincy High School, Mr. Balzano enlisted in the United States Army. He proudly served his country during the Korean War and was honorably discharged on Sept. 30, 1954.

Following his time in the service, Mr. Balzano attended Boston University. After earning his bachelor's degree in biochemistry, he had a successful career with Bioran in Cambridge as well as several local hospitals before retiring in 1993. He had such a joyful personality throughout his entire life that he had many friends.

Mr. Balzano's two loves were his very beloved wife, Joyce (Halacy) Balzano and golf. Guido and Joyce married on May 6, 1961 at St. John's Church in Quincy and shared 60 years of a loving marriage. They enjoyed time traveling together and spending winters in Florida. As a 'lifer' member of the South Shore Country Club, he was exceptionally skilled to have won Club Championships and to have made six holes in one!

Mr. Balzano was the devoted uncle of 19 nieces and nephews and many loving grand and great grand nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his eight siblings - John, Jack, Joe, Mary (DeVellis), Phyllis (Cocio), Tony, George, and Jerry.

Mr. Balzano's family would like to extend a special thank you to both Harbor House and Allerton House for the care and support given to Guido and his family. Memorial donations may be made to South Shore Community Action Council, Inc. in Plymouth, MA (an organization whose mission is to eliminate poverty on the South Shore).

Due to Covid-19 restrictions, Mr. Balzano's funeral services will be celebrated privately. He will be interred in St. Paul's Cemetery, Hingham with military honors.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Pandemic Derail Your Financial Goals? Getting Back On Schedule

BY ALAN BECKER

Among the many devastating problems the COVID-19 pandemic caused was this: Plenty of Americans were left fretting about the state of their finances.

In a Pew Research Center survey, about half of non-retired adults said the pandemic's economic impact will make it harder for them to achieve their long-term financial goals. Among those experiencing a financial struggle, 44 percent estimated it would take them three years, maybe more, to get back to where they were before the pandemic.

Another 10 percent are even more pessimistic, saying it's possible they will never recover.

These are sobering results, though perhaps not surprising. We all watched over the last year as portions of the economy shut down while our country did battle with the virus. Small businesses closed, some never to reopen again. Employees were told their services were no longer needed, and they went from drawing a regular paycheck to dealing with the frustrations of trying to draw unemployment.

For many people, savings plans took a hit. That Pew Research survey showed that 31 percent of savers had reduced the amount they save. Among lower-income Americans, 47 percent cut back on their savings. As a nation, we do see brightness ahead as Americans become vaccinated and the economy begins to right itself. What's done is done, though, and those whose finances took a major blow must now figure out how to stabilize themselves and get back on course.

Here are a few tips for doing so:

- Make a plan. Figure out where your finances are right now. Look at your monthly expenses and your monthly income and see how they stack up. Are there ways you can cut back on expenses. Of course, that may mean making sacrifices, a hard ask since you may have sacrificed so much already in the last year. Indeed, 42 percent of the Americans that Pew Research surveyed said they are spending less money than usual since the pandemic began. But you can feel more confident going forward if you write down a plan that outlines where your finances are, where you would like them to be, and what steps you need to take to get there.

- Begin saving again as soon as you can. One of the most insidious aspects of financial struggles is that they beget other financial struggles. You can't pay this month's electric bill, so you charge it to a credit card, which means now you are paying that bill off with interest, which means it's even harder to save for retirement or emergencies. But saving is important, and the sooner you can get back to doing it regularly, the better, even if it's just a small amount to begin with. One of the best ways to save is if your employer offers a 401(k) plan where your contributions go directly into your account without you ever touching the money. This is even better when the employer offers a company match, free money that boosts your savings even more.

- Consider postponing retirement. If you were forced to reduce your contributions to your retirement savings – or worse, had to dip into those retirement funds to meet monthly expenses – it might be a good idea to take another look at your retirement timeline. Perhaps it would be wise to postpone retirement a few years, giving you more time to build back what was lost.

- Review your Social Security options. When you close in on Social Security age, you have decisions to make. The pandemic may have changed what you want or need to do. You can take your Social Security benefit early, at 62, but that means a reduced monthly check for the rest of your life. You can wait until your full eligibility age, which for most people is 66 or 67. Or you can put off claiming Social Security until age 70, and be rewarded with a bigger monthly check. Perhaps pre-pandemic you had your Social Security plan all figured out, and possibly that plan still works. But it also could be time to review where you stand. If you lost your job, taking Social Security early may now make sense just to bring in some income. If you decide to keep working beyond the date you originally planned to retire, maybe you will want to postpone Social Security as well.

If you can meet with a financial professional, all the better because they can hone in on the specifics of your individual situation to devise a tailored plan. But regardless, as difficult as it is, don't let emotion rule your decisions. Stay focused on what you can do, put your plan in gear, and with patience and fortitude you can begin to mend that financial wound.

Grab And Go Lunch May 20

Standish Village will provide a grab and go drive by lunch on Thursday, May 20th from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Kennedy Center in Quincy.

Standish Village Assisted Living & Memory Care will be providing a Summer Quinoa Salad from their Brain Healthy Cooking Program. Following the Mediterranean diet, this salad includes quinoa, fresh tomato and basil, spinach, olives, olive oil, balsamic vinaigrette, and their signature spice combination "Spice of Life!" Accompanying the salad, will be chocolate chip cookies.

Meals will be limited to one per person and registration is required. This event is limited to Kennedy Center members only.

Call 617-376-1506 to reserve your pickup time. Each member must register and pick up their own grab and go.

Free Paper Shredding At Bank Of Canton May 22

Bring your sensitive documents to Bank of Canton's 60 McGrath Highway branch in Quincy on Saturday, May 22, between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., for free on-site shredding services.

Touchless process: just load your materials into your trunk, and workers will remove them while you stay in your car. Limit 5 printer-paper-sized boxes of paper per household. Newspapers, books or digital media cannot be accepted.

Event is free and open to the public. Consider bringing three non-perishable food items along with your documents to support Interfaith Social Services' food pantry.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A once-harmonious relationship appears to be hitting some sour notes. Spend some time together to see why things have gone off-key. What you learn might surprise you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You feel a need to make some changes. Good -- you can do it on a small scale (some new clothes, for example), or go big and redecorate your home and/or office.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Control your tendency toward early boredom. A situation in your life might be taking a long time to develop, but patience pays off. Stay with it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might feel that you're on an emotional roller coaster this week. Don't fret; just ride it out and let things settle down. A Pisces shows understanding.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Do something different for once -- compromise. A stubborn stand on an important issue proves counterproductive. You need to be open to new ideas.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A friend offers advice that you perceive as an act of betrayal. But before you turn against the messenger, pay attention to the message.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A year of riding an emotional pogo stick finally settles down. Use this calmer period to restore frayed relationships and to pursue new opportunities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your words can sting, so be careful how you respond to a friend's actions. A calm approach could produce some surprising facts.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Be careful about whose secrets you're being asked to keep. They could impose an unfair burden on a straight arrow like you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) While you prefer taking the tried-and-true course in life, be adventurous this week and accept a challenge that can open new vistas.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your strong sense of justice helps you deal with a job- or school-related situation. Stay with your principles. A Sagittarius emerges as a supporter.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You need to build a stronger on-the-job support system to convince doubting colleagues that your innovative proposals are workable.

BORN THIS WEEK: You might not say much, but you're capable of extraordinary achievements. You are a loyal friend and a devoted family person.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- If Renee Zellweger intended to get as far away from "Chicago's" Roxie Hart and her Oscar-winning best actress performance as Judy Garland in "Judy" (2019), she has succeeded. She's waited a year to choose her next film, and it will be a golf comedy ... yes, golf! "The Back Nine" is written and directed by "Sex in the City" creator Michael Patrick King. Zellweger's character tries to redefine her life 25 years after giving up her promising golf career so her husband could have one, by turning pro. From "Over the Rainbow" to golf?!

Hugh Jackman will finally return to Broadway in February 2022 in the revival of Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man." Originally planned to open last December, it was sidetracked by the pandemic. But before that, Jackman will complete "The Son" for Florian Zeller, director of the Oscar-nominated "The Father," with Laura Dern. That will follow the sci-fi romantic thriller "Reminiscence," with Rebecca Ferguson and Thandie Newton (now using the Zimbabwean spelling of her name). Originally scheduled for an August opening, now it too will open in February 2022.

Let's talk "Odd Couple": Billy Crystal will star with Tiffany Haddish in the comedy "Here Today," which he co-wrote and directs. Penn Badgley and Laura Benanti will aid and abet them.

Mark Hamill will star with Bert Kreischer in "The Machine," which was inspired by Kreischer's stand-up routine about his real-life drunken past, a la "The Hangover" meets "Midnight Run." His stand-up routine of "The Machine" has been viewed more than 85 million times. Hamill is currently shooting the third season of "The Mandalorian" for Disney+.

Bet you didn't know I was friends with Mark when he was one of the stars of "General Hospital" in 1972. In 1977, after looping "Star Wars," Mark was in a car accident that burned his face. His agents called me for some of my photos of him to aid surgeons repairing the damage!

Don't ever take your favorite shows for granted. Would you believe "The Simpsons" is banned in China and Venezuela? "Modern Family" was nixed for Iranian TV because of its same-sex couple. "The Big Bang Theory" was banned in China because it was too popular. Huh? "M.A.S.H." has never been seen in South Korea. "South Park" was banned in Kuwait because of Muslim jokes. China won't show the classic British sci-fi series "Doctor Who" because it depicts time travel. But "Family Guy" wins hands down because it's been banned in Taiwan, Indonesia, Iran, Vietnam, Egypt, The Philippines, Malaysia, South Korea, South Africa, India and Russia. Believe it or not, a "Friends" episode titled "The One With The Lesbian Wedding," which aired in 1996, was banned in several countries, and parts of Texas and Ohio ... well whaddya-know, some things never change!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

'Teakettle' Inkwell --- Although it is called a "teakettle" by bottle collectors because of its shape, it is an antique ink bottle. A quill pen made from a sharpened feather was used to write before a better pen was invented in the early 1800s. After the ink bottle's cap was removed, the pen point was dipped into the ink. Improved pens had a nib, a metal point with a small slit and a ball tip, and later, a reservoir with a feeding mechanism for the ink. When the pen was held in position to write, the ink flowed to the paper.

The first ballpoint pen was invented in 1888, but because the ink was wrong, it didn't become a financial success until the 1950s, after many improvements were made. The ballpoint pen is cheaper, so fountain pens have become status symbols used to sign important documents and proclamations. But collectors buy old and new fountain pens, and many also collect inkwells, ink bottles and related antiques.

Q: I just found my grandmother's sewing box along with a gold thimble, a strawberry-shaped pincushion, some unusual buttons, wooden spools of thread and a strange pair of tiny scissors. She also has many paper folders with ads on the front and needles inside. Are there collectors for old sewing items?

A: Yes. If the thimble is 14-karat gold, not just gold-colored metal, it is worth more just because it is gold. The other items are wanted by collectors who sew to actually use or by advertising collectors who like the small ads or use them to display items with old quilts or clothing. Before the sewing machine was invented in 1845, all clothing and linens were handmade using tools like yours. The needle trade cards were popular giveaways in the 1870s and '80s. A few years later, the needle cases were improved and became small folded envelopes with a piece of fabric pierced by a set of needles. The needles in all these advertising pieces are of top quality and often are taken out of the books to use. Sewing utensils are not expensive and are collected by many. Look for them at house sales, where they may be out of sight in sewing and knitting baskets.

CURRENT PRICES

Advertising sign, "You're Miles Ahead with Mobil," canvas, yellow & red letters, blue ground, rolls up, 1950s, 57 x 35 inches, $60. Marble lamp base, neo-classical, gilt bronze, putti, acanthus base, 1800s, 19 x 34 x 9 1/2 inches, $220. Danish modern chair, cherry frame, swooping arms, swivel backrest, woven back & seat, Selig, Denmark, 28 by 28 inches, $345.

TIP: Keep Barbie barefoot. Don't store a Barbie doll with shoes on because the shoes may damage the feet. Store the shoes where they won't be lost.

Strange BUT TRUE

* The rarest shape for a human nose is the bulbous type, exemplified by former U.S. President Bill Clinton.

* Smuggling a cat out of ancient Egypt was punishable by death.

* A variety of corn grown in Peru has kernels so large that they're eaten individually.

* After impressionist painter Claude Monet developed cataracts, he agreed to have surgery on his right eye only. It is believed that afterwards he could see and paint a wide spectrum of colors usually not seen by the human eye.

* Dinosaurs often swallowed large rocks, which stayed in their stomachs and helped them grind up food.

* One in 23 million people have an allergy to water.

* In 1631, royal printers Robert Barker and Martin Lucas published a Bible containing the typo "Thou Shalt Commit Adultery."

As if that weren't embarrassing enough, another misprint, in Deuteronomy, substituted the word "greatness" with "great-asse." Barker and Lucas were fined 300 pounds and lost their printing license. Less than a dozen copies of what came to be known as the "Wicked," "Sinful" and "Adulterous" Bible are known to exist today and are highly prized by collectors.

* On average, a person's eyes make 15 to 30 gallons of tears a year.

* A rainbow's arc is relative to the position of the person observing it, so it is impossible for two people to actually see the exact same one.

* The air around a lightning bolt is five times hotter than the surface of the sun.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* C.S.R. in Florida sends this reminder: Pull out the plugs on toasters, microwaves, etc. Appliances still draw a bit of power when not in use but plugged in.

* Fasten buttons, zippers and other closures before laundering a garment. This is especially important for any item that includes a hook-and-loop closure. The hooks will catch on other garments, and best case will be filled with lint. Worst case: They can tear at the threads of other items of clothing.

* If you have a bunch of your family's historical documents, make sure you scan them and preserve them for future generations. It's always nice to forward copies to relatives -- you never know when someone will get involved in genealogy and really want to see those birth records, baptism certificates and baby photos. * You can sharpen knitting needles with a pencil sharpener. You also can use an emery board. Sharp needles work best!

* "If you have two pairs of similar slacks -- one navy and one black -- you can put a safety pin through the tag on one of them so you can tell them apart. I have a pin in the navy slacks. They really do look similar until you're out in the light." -- T.L. in Virginia

* Make chopping walnuts easier: Put some in a bowl, and nest another bowl into it, then rock the top bowl back and forth to crush the walnuts.

celebrity extra

Q: There is an actress on the TV show "The Mandalorian" who looks just like Mariska Hargitay from "Law & Order." Are they related? -- P.G.

A: You must be thinking of Gina Carano, who played Cara Dune on the first two seasons of the Star Wars series "The Mandalorian." I never thought about it before, but you're right, they do look like they could be sisters, or cousins, but there is no relation. Mariska Hargitay, who has played detective Olivia Benson on "Law & Order: SVU" for two decades, is actually the daughter of movie stars Jayne Mansfield and Mickey Hargitay. Mansfield tragically died in a car accident at age 34.

As for Carano, before her acting career took off, she was one of the most popular female MMA (mixed martial arts) fighters around. She was born in Texas to parents Dana Joy and Glenn Carano, who was the backup quarterback to Roger Staubach on the Dallas Cowboys.

Q: I heard that "Night Court" is the latest classic TV show being revived as a new series. How are they going to do this since the show's star, Harry Anderson, passed away? -- F.P.

A: It's hard to imagine "Night Court" without Anderson in charge, but the modern version will have John Larroquette returning as Dan Fielding, the role that won him four consecutive Emmys. Carrying on Judge Harry T. Stone's legacy will be his daughter, Abby Stone, played by Melissa Rauch. According to TVLine.com, Abby is "an unapologetic optimist," and as a judge, "steps into her dad's role presiding over the graveyard shift on a Manhattan arraignment court."

The casting of Rauch shouldn't be a surprise, as she was listed as an executive producer of the reboot back in December. At the time, Deadline.com stated that Rauch was a fan of the original series, but there were no plans for her to star in the sequel. However, she's a strong comedic actress (she played Bernadette on "Big Bang Theory"), so to me she seems a natural choice to play Judge Stone's offspring.

The original "Night Court" aired on NBC 1984 to 1992. The new series is not an automatic go, however. They'll film the pilot episode, and then NBC will decide whether to add it to its lineup.

Q: Whatever happened to sitcom actress Jackee?

Melissa Rauch

I remember she had her own show for a while, but I haven't seen her in anything in years. Is she still acting? -- P.A.

A: Yes! Jackee Harry made her professional acting debut on the daytime soap "Another World" before becoming a household name a year later on the sitcom "227," with Marla Gibbs. NBC then created the sitcom "Jackee," but it was never picked up. She was part of many successful series following that disappointment, including "Sister, Sister," "Everybody Hates Chris" and "The Paynes." Now 64 years old, she isn't stopping. In fact, her career has come full circle with a recurring role as Paulina on a daytime soap -- NBC's "Days of Our Lives."

Each puzzle consists of a square grid with numbers appearing in all squares. The object is to shade squares so:

5	4	1	3	4
3	4	3	1	5
4	4	2	3	3
2	1	5	4	4

The right grid contains the following numbers, with some cells shaded black and others containing circled numbers:

1	5	3		2
5		1	3	4
3	4		1	5
4		2		3
2	1	5	4

- No number appears in a row or column more than once.
- Shaded (black) squares do not touch each other vertically or horizontally.
- When completed, all un-shaded (white) squares create a single continuous area.

Owner: My Dog's Poop Not My Responsibility

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I see no reason to pick up my dog's poop, and I'm tired of being told that it's my responsibility. I'm a taxpayer, and part of those taxes go toward cleaning the streets. If my dog poops on the curb or the sidewalk, the city should clean it up. That's what I pay for. I also don't see why my neighbor gets so upset when my dog poops on her front lawn. It's all fertilizer. It's time for big government to do its job and stop making us pick up after our dogs. -- Bill in Burlington

DEAR BILL: Well, that's a pooppy attitude. Here's the simple fact: You are responsible for your dog. Not the city, not your neighbor. Where your dog's actions impact other people, animals or the environment, it's your responsibility to minimize or prevent that impact. Dog poop left on the sidewalk, curb or street eventually breaks down, right? Wrong. It gets stepped on by other animals or people, who track fecal bacteria all over the place. It washes into the wastewater system and introduces new bacteria into natural waterways, sickening wildlife. The neighbor's yard is a no-go zone because it's their yard, plain and simple. Dog poop or urine can discolor or even burn their grass. Your dog is trespassing. And if you think that letting your dog poop in a park is OK, think again. Would you want a little kid running barefoot in the park to step in that poop? All those problems are minimized when you take along a little baggie (preferably a compostable one), pick up that poop and dispose of it properly. There's no need to debate this. Pick it up.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY AMY ANDERSON

We've just finished up Mother's Day, the annual celebration of those wonderful souls we call Mom — the givers of warm hugs, whose kisses cure ouchies and who are always there with love, a shoulder to cry on and maybe a sandwich. Ain't she grand? Well, not always.

Just because a woman gives birth, it doesn't mean she gives anything else. This is what got me thinking about Anne Ramsey, the unforgettable actress who starred as TWO terrible mothers: Mrs. Lift, the Momma in Throw Momma From the Train, where Danny DeVito and Billy Crystal play two men who strike a Hitchcockian deal to murder one another's antagonists. The other role? The iconic Mama Fratelli in "The Goonies." Here are eight more actresses and the decidedly nonmaternal characters they played:

Rhea Perlman in Matilda: A precocious child with telekinetic powers? You'd think mom would be thrilled, but Zinnia Wormwood, Matilda's mother, is obsessed with television, bingo and not understanding the special qualities of her daughter.

Faye Dunaway in Mommie Dearest — Based on autobiographical account from Christina Crawford, we are treated to all the emotionally scarring behavior doled out by a mentally ill Joan Crawford, including a beating for the use of wire hangers to hang pricey dresses.

Kathleen Turner in Serial Mom — Speaking of rigid expectations, how about a woman who, despite coming off as the perfect housewife and mother, exacts the worst of consequences for what she deems bad behavior: She'll kill ya.

Angela Lansbury in The Manchurian Candidate — Some mothers are bossy, but Eleanor Iselin uses her brainwashed son as an assassin to further her own diabolical plan to have her husband nominated for the presidency.

Mo'Nique in Precious — The ways in which Mary are cruel know no bounds — her abuse is physical, emotional, mental, raw, and it's a miracle that Precious survives it.

Jennifer Coolidge in American Pie — Best known as Stifler's mom, this buxom beauty makes a man out of one of her son's friends, who have made a pledge to lose their virginity by the prom.

Faye Dunaway in "Mommie Dearest"

Anne Bancroft in The Graduate — What to do when your mom has better lingerie and won't share her lover who is more age-appropriate for you? This is the dilemma of Elaine, whose mother seduces a new college grad to distract from her loveless marriage.

Shirley MacLaine in Postcards from the Edge — A drug-addicted actress finishes up rehab and must live with a responsible adult in order to avoid further consequences. Too bad Mom is competitive, loud and sucks all the air out of the room. Based on a semi-autobiographical screenplay by actress Carrie Fisher about her relationship with Debbie Reynolds.

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass 2 NT Pass 3 NT
Opening lead — seven of clubs.

Sometimes a declarer suffers a blind spot that causes him to go down in an ice-cold contract. Why this happens is anyone's guess, but it happens often enough to be a cause for concern for any player who takes his game seriously.

Consider this deal where South was in three notrump and West led a low club. Declarer promptly put up the jack, which held, and then led a diamond to the queen, losing to the king. West exited with a diamond, South ducking East's nine and winning the next diamond as West discarded a spade. When the diamonds failed to divide 3-3, declarer had to look elsewhere for a ninth trick.

So he turned his attention to the heart suit, playing the king and then overtaking the jack with the queen. He then cashed the ace, hoping the ten would fall and establish the nine. But when the ten did not appear, South had to go down one.

It is true that three different possibilities — the diamond finesse, a 3-3 diamond break or the fall of the heart ten — failed to materialize for declarer. But it is also true that he started the play with nine ironclad tricks and wound up with only eight. All he had to do to guarantee the contract was to play low from dummy on the opening lead and win West's seven with the king!

This seemingly frivolous play — disdaining the "free" club trick offered by playing the jack — assures South of the dummy entry he needs to score four heart tricks rather than three. After winning the king of clubs, he cashes the K-J of hearts and leads a low club toward the J-10. Nothing can then stop him from scoring four hearts, three clubs and his other two aces to make the contract.

There's No Such Thing As A 'Cure' For Autism

DEAR DR. ROACH: A friend took her autistic son to a clinic in Mexico where he was fed a bleach solution that was supposed to cure his autism, but instead it made him very sick. He was deeply distressed and regressed in his behavior, and there was nothing my friend could do because in Mexico these kinds of clinics are allowed to operate with impunity. Isn't there some way to stop this kind of thing? --P.P.L.

ANSWER: Before I get into why this story makes me both sad and angry, I want to address autism. Autism is an increasingly diagnosed condition that includes difficulty with social interactions, stereotyped repetitive movements and delayed language skills, although there is a subset of people with autism with no language delay. It's absolutely critical to recognize that autism is a spectrum condition, ranging from people with profound disabilities to those who are so mildly affected that the diagnosis is very subtle. Correct diagnosis is complicated, even for an expert. Intellectual abilities in autism range from severe cognitive impairment to far above-normal intelligence. As such, the proper medical care of a person with autism depends on his or her unique situation.

Although most people on the autism spectrum need some extra empathy and understanding in order to have the best possible life, people with autism do not need to be "cured." There is no "cure" for autism, so when you hear a professed "cure," you should be deeply suspicious.

In the case of the bleach solution, it is sadly not just in Mexico where this happens. The Food and Drug Administration had to warn consumers against the use of a product called "miracle mineral solution," "chlorine dioxide" and other names. It is hard for me to believe the FDA has to warn people not to drink (or make your child drink) a powerful bleaching agent, but there are increasing reports of its use. It causes damage to the intestines, as you correctly note, but may also cause liver failure, nausea and vomiting, and dehydration. There is no evidence that this "treatment" is effective for any condition, even though it is marketed for cancer and HIV as well as autism. This is what makes me angry: I cannot imagine a crime much worse than profiting off of a treatment known to be both dangerous and ineffective.

What makes me sad is that I can empathize with parents who have a child with autism who want their child to be more like other children, more "normal." It takes time to come to grips with the fact that your child is not like others, but that he or she is a unique person who should be loved and accepted for who he or she is. That means finding creative ways to really help your child. There is a wide range of appropriate treatments for people with autism, preferably considered as early as possible, which is why it is so important to make the correct diagnosis quickly in a child with autism.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

New Orleans Bread Pudding

- 2 (4-serving) packages sugar-free vanilla cook-and-serve pudding mix
- 4 cups skim milk
- 1 teaspoon coconut extract
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 8 slices reduced-calorie French or white bread, torn into pieces
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 2 tablespoons flaked coconut
- 2 tablespoons chopped pecans
- 1 teaspoon rum extract
- 2 teaspoons reduced-calorie margarine

1. Preheat oven to 360 F. Spray an 8-by-8-inch baking dish with butter-flavored cooking spray.
2. In a large skillet, combine 1 package dry pudding mix and 2 1/2 cups skim milk. Cook over medium heat until mixture starts to boil, stirring constantly with a wire whisk. Remove from heat. Stir in coconut extract and nutmeg. Add bread pieces, raisins, coconut and pecans. Mix gently to combine.
3. Pour mixture into prepared baking dish. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes. Place baking dish on a wire rack while preparing sauce.
4. In a medium saucepan, combine remaining package of dry pudding mix and remaining 1 1/2 cups skim milk. Cook over medium heat until mixture thickens and starts to boil, stirring constantly with a wire whisk. Remove from heat. Stir in rum extract and margarine.
5. Cut bread pudding into 6 pieces. For each serving, place a serving of bread pudding on a dessert plate and spoon about 1/4 cup warm rum sauce over top.

• Each serving equals: 211 calories, 3g fat, 10g protein, 36g carb., 652mg sodium, 1g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: 1 Starch, 1 Skim Milk, 1 Fruit, 1/2 Fat.

1. Who released "Gypsies, Tramps & Thieves"?
2. Which group had a hit with "Ain't No Woman (Like the One I've Got)"?
3. Who wrote and released "Superfly"?
4. Two versions of "Shambala" were released just one week apart in 1973. Who did them?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "Love is what it does and ours is doing nothing. But all the time we spent, it must be good for something."

Answers

1. Cher, in 1971. The original title was "Gypsies, Tramps and White Trash" until cooler heads prevailed.
2. The Four Tops, in 1973. It had been previously released in 1972 by Hamilton, Joe Frank & Reynolds, best known for "Don't Pull Your Love."
3. Curtis Mayfield, on his soundtrack album for the film of the same name. Despite the movie tie-in, the song only reached No. 8 on the Billboard chart.
4. B.W. ("Buckwheat") Stevenson and Three Dog Night. Shambala is many things: a mythical Himalayan kingdom, a roller coaster, a Tanzanian language and a music festival.
5. "Wait for Me," by Hall and Oates, 1979. Daryl Hall says he wrote the song to try to hold on to someone at the end of a relationship. It worked.
